

Make Some Progress In Removing Snow From Highways

SHIFTS WORK DAY AND NIGHT TO OPEN ROADS

Several Arteries Are Now Opened Full Length to Travel

Working desperately on 24-hour shifts, the Outagamie-co highway department has finally succeeded in making some progress in opening roads.

Handicapped by constant high winds and storms during the past two weeks, the department has fought a losing battle to keep the highways open to traffic. Numerous times the roads have been opened only to be shut within a few hours as the winds shifted and the snow drifted into the cuts which in many instances are more than eight feet deep.

Monday morning the workers had succeeded in opening Highway 41 from the county line just south of Appleton to the Brown-co line; Highway 10 to the Waupaca-co line; Highway 125 to the Waupaca-co line; Highway 47 to Mackville; Highway 76 to Greenville; Highway 26-a short distance from Greenville toward New London.

No work had been done on any county trunks or on Highways 55 and 54. A. G. Brusewitz, highway commissioner, said that nothing could be done on these roads until the more important highways had been opened.

MEET TROUBLE

Considerable trouble was experienced on Highways 47 and 26. On the former, where perhaps the deepest drifts in the county have formed, two tractors were hitched together behind one huge plow and some progress was being made. Truck plows were useless on this highway. In some places on this road the snow has already been piled up eight and nine feet high on the sides of the cuts and the trouble now is to push out the new accumulation of drifted snow.

On Highway 76 the same trouble was being encountered. It was necessary once to pull the tractors off there and to proceed with the work by hand because the cuts prevented pushing the snow to the side of the road and it would accumulate in front of the plows and stall them.

The work was proceeding quite well on Highway 26 and it was expected that this road to New London would be open sometime Tuesday morning. A route to New London then will be open by following Highway 76 from Appleton to Greenville and then taking 26 from Greenville to New London.

Monday morning the entire fleet of five Four-Wheel Drive trucks was in operation but late in the morning two of them came back to the barns for repairs. One of the trucks had a broken transmission and the other a broken valve. Both would be back on the road before night, it was said at the barns.

TRACTOR IN BARN
One tractor is tied up in the garage with a broken clutch. It has been there since the first big storm more than two weeks ago. There are several one-way plows on the barns also but they are of no use to fight snow under present conditions, Mr. Brusewitz said.

"Sunday I went to Shawano and Brown-co and I found that while they may have made better progress in opening their roads than we have, the conditions in those counties are not nearly as bad," Mr. Brusewitz said Monday morning.

The pointed out that the drifts on the roads there were not nearly as deep as they were in Outagamie-co and that these counties evidently had not experienced the same high winds and the severe storms that have visited here.

The highway commissioner pointed out that he and his department was doing all that was humanly possible in the face of present conditions and with the equipment available.

A survey made by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce reveals that the highways from Green Bay to Appleton is open to travel although the going is rather rough. The road also is open from Appleton to Milwaukee. To reach Milwaukee, however, it is necessary to travel via Highway 41 to Fond du Lac and then take Highway 55 from Fond du Lac to Milwaukee.

CHARGE MAN VIOLATED PARKING ORDINANCE
Edward H. Dumke, 531 N. Appleton-st., was arrested Monday morning on a charge of parking his automobile on N. Appleton-st. between North and Pacific-sts in violation of a city ordinance prohibiting parking on the street between 1 and 5 o'clock in the morning. He was arrested by Officer Earl Thomas and will appear in municipal court Monday afternoon to answer charges.

YOUTH, 21, SEEKS JOB AS ALDERMAN FROM FIFTH WARD

Although the Sixth ward promises to be the scene of the hottest fight for alderman at the primary election, other political battles just as interesting are appearing on the horizon as more candidates continue to enter the field.

One campaign which will focus considerable attention is that in the Fifth ward, in which Alderman W. H. Vanderheyden, who is seeking reelection and Philip Ottman, 1016 W. Spring-st., a 21-year-old youth, are the principals so far.

Ottman is probably the youngest candidate ever to enter the field in the aldermanic race.

GEENEN ESTATE IS AWARDED $14,000 FROM 3 SISTERS

Deposits Made by Former Freedom Merchant Part of Estate, Court Finds

Two deposits totaling almost $14,000, made by the late Henry Geenen, pioneer Freedom merchant, with nieces, belongs to the estate, according to a decision handed down late last week by Judge Henry Graess of circuit court in Brown-co.

Three sisters, Christina Garvey, Della Zimmerman and Ella Vandewilligen, claimed the money on the grounds that the former merchant had instructed his nieces that, in case of his death, they should turn over the deposits to them.

Judge Graess based his decision on the fact that the testamentary disposition was void because the statutes require wills to be in writing before they can be effective.

The late Mr. Geenen, who died Jan. 22, 1927, in the fall of 1926 gave to Della Hocks, De Pere, certificates of deposit on several banks totaling $9,883.29, instructing her to deposit them for the three sisters in case anything happened to him. About the same time he also deposited $4,000 in Liberty Bonds with Mamie Hocks, with the same instructions he had issued to Della Hocks.

Upon Mr. Geenen's death, B. J. Zuehlke was named administrator, and action was brought by the estate in circuit court in Brown-co to recover these two deposits. The sisters claimed the deposits were gifts to them, and that the estate was not entitled to recover. The case was tried last fall.

Judge Graess said in his decision: "The court is of the opinion that no opinion that no title passed to the designated donees during the lifetime of the decedent, Henry Geenen, and no title having passed during his lifetime, revoked whatever agency he had created in this regard. His direction that the property should be delivered to his sisters, if anything happened to him, meaning after his death, must be regarded as a mere testamentary disposition. Such testamentary disposition not being in writing, is void, under our statutes requiring wills to be in writing before they can be effective."

"I believe that the property in question belongs to the estate of Henry Geenen, deceased, never having been legally transferred in his lifetime and should be given to the possession of the plaintiff as administrator."

Mr. Geenen, who had many relatives in this county, left an estate between $35,000 and $40,000. Several other litigations over the estate are pending before final settlements will be possible.

Attorneys for the estate were A. H. Krugmeier and Joseph Witmer. Martin and Clifford, Green Bay, represented the defendants.

Kaiser Recalls Former Glories On His Birthday

his enemies had succeeded in telling the Kaiser.

After the service guests were shown hundreds of gifts the former Kaiser had received. Wilhelm was deeply touched at the handicraft of his grandchildren who presented him with many articles of wood carving, pillows, embroidery, ash trays and jewelry cases. Dowager Queen Emma of Holland, sent a big floral tribute, Queen Wilhelmina dispatched an adjutant to felicitate the former Kaiser personally. President Von Hindenberg in his capacity as a private citizen and former field marshal under the Kaiser sent a letter written in his own hand.

A huge birthday cake, upon which burned 70 candles but merely one big "life light," stood in the center of the table.

Friedrich August the Third, former king of Saxony, proposed the Kaiser's health while the household band of five pieces sounded a salute. Wilhelm responded briefly referring to the effect produced upon him by the sight of the old uniforms.

The menu was soup, fish, pheasant, birthday cake and German wines. Servants were given slices of the birthday cake and a bottle of wine to take home to their families. Everyone on the premises, from the former crown prince to the Kaiser's chauffeur, was given souvenirs in the form of a black and white ribbon surmounted by a silver Hohenzollern crown with the inscription "W—1859-1929."

MAY PUSH THROUGH RULING ON RADIO

demonstrate that broadcasting facilities were open to all parties and candidates on equal terms?

These questions are gossiped about today as the speculation continues as to whether President Coolidge will reappoint the commissioners on Feb. 23rd, considering them from the viewpoint of an appeal board, or whether congress will take action continuing the life of the commission beyond the middle of March, when its statutory term is supposed to end.

Much depends on Mr. Hoover's own view. Does he want to add radio to his numerous problems or keep it in the hands of a commission? And if the latter is the case would he prefer to have Mr. Coolidge leave the matter of appointments to him? Answers to these questions from Miami would clarify the situation but Mr. Hoover was here for several days and learned all about the difficulties and did not indicate a course of action.

EXPECT APPOINTMENTS
The belief prevails that Mr. Coolidge will make the necessary appointments. Whether congress in the last several days of a short session will get time to confirm them is another dubious point. If the members failed of confirmation it would be necessary to send their names or other nominations to the senate in the extra session which comes in April but to present members would serve under recess appointments.

There is some suggestion that the department of commerce would like to retain the radio commission's machinery intact and add to it more engineers and technical men. The issue is whether radio shall continue to be considered in small moments of a short congress always in a hurry to get away, or whether it shall be handled in a way to make a real start toward scientific settlement of a problem that has political, economic and technical aspects.

Miss Lucille Foley spent the week-end with her aunt, Mrs. Charles Morrow, 535 W. Sixth-st. Miss Foley is a student at St. Joseph high school. Mrs. Joseph Schwaiger, Mrs. Percy Thomas Woolley, Thomas and Joseph and Barbara Woolley will leave early this week for LaCrosse.

STATE PLUMBING INSPECTORS REJECT 225 INSTALLATIONS

Three Field Men Carry on Work Outside of Cities With Inspectors

Madison — (AP) — State board of health representatives inspected 2,322 plumbing and draining installations in Wisconsin in 1928, according to the annual report of Frank R. King of the board of health plumbing bureau.

Of the inspections, Mr. King's report shows that 255 installations were rejected, or 6.4 per cent of all the work, the lowest mark since inception of the service in 1914. Three field men are in the work, and 1,288 visits were made to 482 places, the report shows. Their work was exclusive of that in 77 cities which maintain inspectors.

This service, Mr. King said, also embraced several hundred schools, residential and industrial sanitary installations for which advisory help was given.

The licensing report of plumbers shows 1,675 journeymen and 904 master plumbers. Four state-wide examinations were held, as a result of which licenses were issued to 37 masters and 30 journeymen plumbers. Examinations in 1929 will be held at Boys' Technical high school, Milwaukee, Feb. 25, May 26, Aug. 26 and Nov. 18.

The board believes the licensing feature should be extended to include all cities having public water and sewer systems. It now applies only to cities above 3,000 population. There are 410 indentured apprentices and approximately 400 plumbers' helpers, the records show.

The report endorses the national movement for modernizing existing homes and buildings, which it asserts

THREE DAYS REMAIN TO PAY LICENSES ON DOGS TO TREASURER

Dog licenses must be paid within the next three days. This was the warning issued Monday by Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer.

The state law provides that licenses on dogs must be paid in January. Thursday is the last day of the month and consequently the last day of grace for dog owners.

Failure to comply with the law makes dog owners liable to arrest for illegal harboring of dogs, according to Mr. Bachman. Police officers will make a house to house survey of the city next month and the names of dog owners who have failed to secure the proper licenses will be secured and action instituted against them.

The reminder Saturday that only a few days remain in which these licenses may be paid brought a crowd to the city treasurer's office Monday. And even large crowds are anticipated before Thursday evening. Although there are almost 1,000 dogs in the city, only about 275 people had bought licenses for their pets by last Saturday.

"deserves intelligent support and co-operation."

"Such a movement," the report adds, "is in direct line with the conservation of our natural resources, particularly of the forests which are fast decreasing and cannot be restored during the life of a number of generations. The movement should result in much good and in a large saving of building material."

The report cites that less than one-sixth of Wisconsin's farm homes have running water, while about 25,000 have electricity.

Miss Mab Booth and Mrs. A. B. Palmer left Monday for Oklahoma City, Okla., where they will spend the winter, after being guests for the past two months at the H. B. Palmer home, E. Pacific-st.

TRAINS ARE AGAIN ARRIVING ON TIME

Reestablish Freight Train Service Following Blizzard

Trains are again arriving here near their regular schedule, according to local railroad agents. Several trains are still a few minutes late, due to the excess shipments since the blizzard which tied up express and freight movements, agents say. Friday and Saturday trains were running from one to three hours late and some on the main line of the Chicago and Northwestern, and Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific road were stalled in snowdrifts and were unable to get through.

Freight service was reestablished Sunday and by Monday morning shipments were being distributed. Trains were being "double headed"

ASK POLICE TO LOOK FOR EAU CLAIRE MAN

Police here Monday morning received word from Eau Claire asking them to assist in the search for Lester Abernethy, 18, of that city, who disappeared on Jan. 19. The missing man was a salesman for the Northern Sales company of Eau Claire and his duties consisted of checking up vending machines and selling fireworks. He is about six feet tall, has a dark complexion and long dark hair.

He left Adams on Jan. 19 for Baraboo and has not been seen or heard of since. He was driving a Ford coupe, with 1928 license number C-32897. In the car was a stock of supplies owned by the company for which he worked.

because of the heavy load of cars. Freight trains were discontinued Saturday when high drifts blocked the right of way. It is expected that by the end of this week rail service will be back to normal.

MANY HERE END COLDS WAY DOCTORS ADVISE

Find Hospital Tested Method Quick, Pleasant and Inexpensive for Home Use

A pleasant taste — almost instant relief — then the joy of waking up after a refreshing night's sleep without the misery and risk one takes by neglecting a cold during this pneumonia weather.

This, briefly, is the experience of numbers of people in Appleton and vicinity. For doctors are advising home use of a hospital method that brings quick, sure relief.

Geo. M. Ruebiling, for example, had neglected his cold in the hope it would clear up itself. Instead, it got worse and congestion started spreading rapidly. Then he called his doctor, who advised Ayer's

Pectoral, a compound of wild cherry, terpin-hydrate, etc., which is used in treating even the most extreme hospital cases. In an hour or so the cold began to clear up. The feverish, "achy" feeling disappeared and in another day or so, the doctor reports, there was no trace left of the cold.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person tomorrow. Endorsed by Schilz Bros. and all druggists.

CHARGE PELTON'S
FUNERAL HOME IS IN HOME DISTRICT

Owner Pleads Not Guilty to Charge of Violating Zoning Ordinance

Neenah—Lavern Pelton, undertaker, was arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of using his home on E. Franklin-ave as a funeral parlor. The arrest was made following the publication of an article which stated that the body of a resident could be viewed at the Pelton funeral home until the day of the funeral which was held on Monday.

NEENAH
SOCIETY

Neenah—The second of the series of skat tournaments conducted by the Eagles was held Sunday afternoon at the aerle club rooms. Prizes were won by Lawrence Brogan, Adam Walters, George Seitz and John Smith. The tournament will be held next Sunday afternoon.

One hundred and forty-five Legionnaires were present Saturday night at the first annual banquet given at Valley Inn. The evening's festivities opened with a dinner served at 6:30. Hugh Falvey was master of ceremonies and introduced F. S. Durham as the principal speaker. He spoke on comradeship with relation to the legion. Several Lawrence college students gave musical numbers and an excellent athletic exhibition. Following the entertainment, cards were played.

The eighth of the series of dancing parties given by the Eagles was held Saturday evening at the aerle hall. The next party will be given Saturday evening.

Kane Lodge Masons will meet Monday evening for regular business. Following the meeting a short talk will be given by a deputy grand lecturer.

St. Paul English Lutheran church Young Peoples' society will have a social Tuesday evening. A trip will be made around the twin cities after which the home of one of the members will be visited.

Mrs. Arnold Jacobs will entertain a group of young people Monday evening at her home on Railroad-st. for Miss Bonnie Ekestein who is to be married soon to Junior Spielbauer of Appleton.

NEENAH CAGERS LOOK TO KAUKAUNA GAME

Neenah—Fresh from its victory over Appleton high school team, the local basketball team started Monday evening to get ready for the second game with Kaukauna team to be played Friday night at Kaukauna. The local team has three more games on the conference schedule and two open dates. It is now heading the conference list. The only game lost early in the season when it was not in shape and minus its main-stay, Schueller, when the Appleton team tripped them up on the S. A. Cook armory floor for a win. Arrangements are being made to take a large delegation of fans to Kaukauna to witness the game. Special busses have been chartered. The second team will also take its second crack at the Kaukauna second team. This team has won every game this season.

TWO WOMEN'S CLUBS OF NEENAH TO MERGE

Neenah—A meeting will be held Tuesday evening to merge the Young Women's club with the Young Women's Christian association. Committees have been busy the last month in securing members, and with a charter list of several hundred, the Neenah branch will be one of the largest in the state. The order of work will be continued as before and by affiliation with the national association, more work will be added. Directors will be elected and new bylaws adopted.

MUSIC STUDENTS ARE PRESENTED IN RECITAL

Neenah—Pupils of the Emlyn Owen piano school appeared Sunday evening in a recital at Immanuel Lutheran church. Those taking part in the program, which was in two parts, were Mrs. Emil Schwartz, Owen, Clifford Nyman, Edna Kollatz, Verna Bohm, June Humphrey, Hazel Tippler, Henrietta Hall, Viola Karrow, Ruth Strey and Gladys Wengen, each playing solos. The money derived from the recital was given to the church to apply to its musical fund.

BAD ROADS HINDER
DELIVERY OF MILK

Neenah—The milk question was badly handicapped during the latter part of last week following the snow storm which blocked all the country roads, making delivery of milk from the farms to the city very difficult. In several cases horses had to take the place of the automobile in an effort to get through the high drifts along the milk routes, delaying until late in the evening.

RECORD NUMBER OF
DEATHS RECORDED
IN NEENAH IN MONTH

Neenah—The number of deaths this month is greater than in any other month in the last five years. Up to Saturday, deaths in Neenah totaled 18, an average of three a day for the last 30 days. A year ago in January the death rate was almost equal to January, 1929, up to the nineteenth. Of this number nine are still in the receiving vault at Oak Hill cemetery awaiting to be buried, the snow storms of the last two weeks having made it impossible for the sexton to locate the lots in the cemetery.

COUNTY HIGHWAYS
OPEN FOR TRAFFIC

County Plows Work Day and Night to Make Traffic Possible

Neenah—All roads entering Neenah are again open for traffic after being blocked by snow for three days. The county snow plows worked all Saturday and part of Sunday to make traffic possible. The S. Commercial street connection with the lake shore road was opened Monday, that street being so filled with snow that the Neenah city equipment could make a passage only as far as Division-st.

SOCIAL ITEMS AT MENASHA

Menasha—More than 70 members of the Robert Burns club of Menasha, Neenah and Appleton attended the 10th birthday anniversary celebration of the Scottish poet at the new Memorial building at Menasha park Friday evening. Appleton members made the trip both by special busses and by rail. One of the features of the celebration was a lunch served by the Fountain Grill.

The program opened with the singing of America. J. S. Oliver of Appleton, president, gave the address of welcome. Dr. D. C. Jones of Neenah gave a talk on the influence of Burns poetry; Miss Bosser and Miss Rosenbaum of Appleton danced the highland fling; musical selections were given by Mrs. M. L. Boehm, Neenah, Miss Blomstrom, Menasha, A. A. Cooper, Neenah, Allan A. Michie and Milton Walters, Menasha; and the reading of Miss Joan Matheson, Neenah; and duets by Mrs. Boehm and Mrs. F. J. Schneller, Neenah, and Miss Ellingboe and Miss Blomstrom, Menasha.

The officers of the club are: President, J. S. Oliver, Appleton; vice president, A. McGregor, Appleton; secretary, J. D. Michie, Menasha.

The Sewing circle of the Women's Benefit association met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Anna Moran.

The meeting of the Good Pal club which was to have been held at the home of Mrs. John Schmidt on Third-st Friday evening, was postponed until the latter part of next week on account of the cold weather.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles gave the third card party of their series at Eagle gymnasium Sunday afternoon. The honors at schafkopf were won by Mrs. James Coenen, John Block, Mrs. George Rembleske, Mrs. Frances Zemlock, Bert Lindsay, and at skat by Joseph Riley, Theodore Sues and Louis Dennis.

A group of school children enjoyed a sleighride out to Lake Park Sunday night. The evening was occupied with games and dancing.

SPECULATORS ARE NOW BUYING STOCK
WITH MORE CAUTION

Interest in Market Has Shown Little Abatement, However, Dealers Report

New York—(AP)—Odd lot dealers say public interest in the stock market has shown little abatement since the slowing down of trading, but that purchasers of limited amounts of securities have been less eager to buy.

They are still buying, but are acquiring with more deliberation and care securities chiefly of corporations known to them through use of their products. People in all sections of the country, it was explained, who never before bought any securities, or if they did invest purchased a few shares in some local enterprise, now are buying stocks of corporations who make their automobiles, drugs, food, home appliances, farm machinery and other articles tried and found satisfactory.

Moreover, outright purchases are increasing in number, although dealers say there is little or no shrinkage in the volume of margin accounts.

The registered mail of odd lot dealers is said to have multiplied many times in volume the last six months, due largely to increased mailing of funds for security purchases. There has been a vast increase also in both incoming mail containing letters requesting information regarding securities, the market in general and odd lot trading methods, and outgoing mail with answers.

Moreover, the mail today no longer is confined to the large cities, but coming and going to thousands of persons of even limited means in villages, towns and hamlets of every state.

Dealers say the letters indicate a desire on the part of the public not only to learn, but the success of efforts made by various agencies to teach investors to investigate before spending their money. Some of the letters give the dealers a hearty laugh, although generally they say the public is far more knowing than a few months ago.

One odd lot dealer who has a nationwide advertising program recently received a request from a small town storekeeper for latest quotations on "notions," explaining he was not in a position to buy a large stock and thought the odd lot house might sell him a smaller quantity.

STATE EMPLOYEES
PUT IN LONG DAYS

Governor's Secretary Gets on Job at 7 O'clock in the Morning

Madison—(AP)—To dispell any impression that state officers and their aides (high sounding phrase for clerks and stenographers) transact the state business in a few hours of the morning, and rest the remainder of the day.

Col. W. L. Smith, private secretary of Governor Kohler, has set a 7 o'clock "show-up" hour for himself. And at that he is often the last man out of the office in the evening. Col. Smith has a bad cold, and planned an extensive bit of resting over the weekend.

The state conservation department, now under direction of M. Peterson, has hung out a "business as usual" sign. The department, somewhat to the consternation of stenographers and others, has been working Saturday afternoons, some holidays, and during lunch hours. On inauspicious days, when most of the office were having receptions and varied odder amusements from tell, the conservationists were planning bigger and better trees and fish.

Strolls around the Capitol after dark reveal many lights in the offices of department heads. Probably the chief offender against the dictates of his wife along this line is Allan Bartley, secretary of the state board of control.

Especially is this true preceding and during the legislature, when appropriation and other local matters beset the workers for the commonwealth.

The main retinue of the Capitol is being re-organized over the weekend. It is "underwent" on the average of once a month, with everything from exhibits of prize-winning florists to

CONGRESS ASKED TO BUILD WIND TUNNEL
TO TEST AIRPLANES

Safer and Cheaper Planes Is Aim—Plans for Project Before Committee

BY WILLIAM E. BERCHTOLD
Washington—(AP)—Safer and cheaper airplanes is the aim of a government proposal to build a giant experimental wind tunnel laboratory at Langley field, Va.

Plans for the project, which exceed the proportions of any similar laboratory planned by any nation, are now before the house appropriations committee in an item requesting an appropriation for $525,000 in 1930 by the National Advisory committee for Aeronautics.

A full-sized airplane could be placed in the new wind tunnel to provide a detailed study of forces acting upon the plane in full flight without taking it off the ground. Wind tunnels have played an important part in the development of safer airplanes, but heretofore toy like models have been used for the tests.

Experts have discovered that errors sometimes as high as 10 per cent are incurred through use of models instead of actual airplanes. However, they are not willing to send pilots and planes into the air to test some new and radically unconventional device unless they are certain that the risk to pilot and plane is not too great.

"At present the safe flight of an airplane is dependent too much upon ability of the pilot," Dr. Joseph S. Ames, chairman of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, told a subcommittee of the house appropriations committee. "The problems of better stability and control must be solved. A large majority of fatal accidents are the result of airplanes rearing a stalling speed, where the present types of control are ineffective. We cannot expect to study these violent maneuvers which in actual flight, where the dangers are very great, and error is apt to creep in if we work out our problem with models. We must have a wind tunnel laboratory in which an airplane with 50 foot wing span can be tested as if in actual flight."

In commenting upon the success of the 20 foot propeller research tunnel now in operation Dr. Ames told the committee that the savings made possible in one year in use of the new tunnel would be $200,000, or about half the total for all Europe, devoted most of the funds to public utility development and a large proportion to banking institutions. Denmark was second largest European borrower, using proceeds for government or government-guaranteed projects, while Italy was third and Norway fourth.

Latin America again took second place in total borrowings, with more than 90 per cent of the proceeds being devoted to governmental uses, chiefly for public improvements, such as highways, sewage systems and railroads.

Canada was the second largest individual borrower, taking $240,000, 900, most of which was for corporate purposes.

The proposed tunnel, which is paralleled in its size and importance only by a similar project considered for several years in Italy, would cost approximately $900,000 when completed. The present appropriation request is for $525,000 to begin construction of the tunnel.

In comparison with the present laboratory at Langley field, the new giant of them all would be approximately four times as large. Instead of an

THIS HAS HAPPENED
ASHTORETH ASHE, returning from the Indies with her brand-new fiancé, the former employer, HOLLIS HART, the great millionaire, receives a wireless from MONTY ENGLISH, a mere road salesman, who was, once upon a time, her sweetheart, Monty, not knowing of her engagement, wants to meet her at the pier. But Ash-toreth spends $34 of Hollis' plentiful millions, alighting.
Imagine, then, her consternation, when, upon meeting her mother in Cosdon, she learns that Monty is flying over from New York. Following receipt of her wireless, he had sent her another a telegram: "ARRIVING BY PLANE MUST SEE ASHTORETH IMMEDIATELY."
Naturally Ash-toreth is annoyed particularly as Hollis is also flying over from New York. It would be decidedly awkward if they should chance to make the trip together — her fiancé and her ex-sweetheart.
She becomes even angrier when she learns that MAIZIE, her mother, has befriended a girl named SADIE MORTON, who had previously tried to blackmail Hollis, and who was, for some time, a pensioner on his long time.
Sadie is living now in the Ashe flat. A rather embarrassing situation particularly as Ash-toreth expects to see her fiancé that evening. Her mother, by the way, knows nothing of her engagement. Ash-toreth has been away for three weeks, and during the time has won the heart of her rich employer, whom she met, by accident, on her voyage.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXV
Sadie had broken with George. He was just a bum," she told Ash-toreth. "And when I discovered he was bootlegging, I said, 'No, sir, I said, I ain't going to get mixed up in any of that stuff. And I give him the go-by, just that. And the big stiff, he's got a real sporty car now, with wheels and one of them horns on home, and he's running round with that doll-faced maniac that used to work in the Five and Ten."
Ash-toreth sympathized wanly. "But why did you give up the apartment, Sadie? I thought you were awfully happy."
"Oh, you don't know how it is, living with a bunch of girls. Every-one wants first parking privileges. And when it got so they froze on to my dinner for pecking, and George and I had to while away our time out in the kitchen — why, you can't blame me, Ash, for getting sort of sore, can you?"
"But what did you do with your furniture?" asked Ash-toreth.
"Oh, I sold some," Sadie was airily casual. "You see I'm out of a job right now, Ash. And a girl's got to dress. You can't blame me for wanting some new clothes once in a while, now can you?"
"Sadie's sleeping with me," broke in Maizie conciliatingly. "And I got a nice new set of blankets for your bed, Ash-toreth. All wool. I guess it will be pretty nice to sleep in your own bed again, won't it?"
"Come on in your mother's room," invited Sadie, "and see how pretty we got it fixed up. I brought a few of my things along."
Maizie was beaming up some pop-overs.
"Dinner'll be ready just as soon as the vegetables boil," she promised, bustling about. "Everything's all peeled, and the steak's ready to cook. The water's hot now. I'll just stick these pop-overs in the oven, and we can sit down in about 20 minutes."
She came and stood in the bedroom door, as Sadie exhibited her treasures. The long-legged French doll, and all the little boudoir pillows. The orchid toilet set, and soft mauve rugs to cover Maizie's scratched, bare floor.
"And here," said Sadie, "is the Maiden's Prayer."
She indicated a verse, framed and hung upon the wall.
"I cut it out of a magazine," she explained. "And I took a goofy poem out of that frame, all about love and friendship, and living up on the heights. And I stuck in this one, instead. Every night when your mother says her prayers, I say it over, so's I won't forget I ain't a red-hot mommer any more."
Ash-toreth read with amusement. While Sadie, at her shoulder, rendered it aloud, and with appropriate feeling:
"I used to be a flapper
With a nifty, shift, line;
A very rapid tickler—that was me!
A thirsty little lapper
Of the Gordon and the wine,
And—baby, what a necker could be!
The sheiks would always tag me,
For they liked my sizzling style,
But—nobody tried to drag me Down
the aisle;
When it was a case of marry,
Every Tom, Dick and Harry
Found some shy and simple lassie
to adore;
So my ways are getting calmer,
And I ain't a Red Hot Mommer Any more!"
A Mommer overheard
Is an incandescent wow.
She "burns 'em up" completely—in a gang.
But she finds that he is cheated
If am getting wiser now
When the wedding bells discreetly
Start to clang.
For the Molten Mommer's foolish:
She is dippy in the dome;
Even sheiks prefer it coolish in the home.
When for life they have possessed
us.
They don't like to wear asbestos—a volcano in the house-hold is a bore.
So I'm quiet, and calmer,
And I ain't a Red Hot Mommer Any more!"
Sadie bent to the mirror, and ap-plied her lipstick shaking her mouth into an exaggerated cupid's bow.
"Ain't it the truth?" she de-manded. "A red-hot mommer's dippy in the dome. I've changed my mind, Ash. Did you notice I don't use so much makeup as I used to—not nearly. Just a little powder and lipstick. They make them up es-pecial now, to make your skin, and set off your eyes right. You want to get your powder blended, Ash. It don't cost any more, and it's awful smart. I got this done for a dollar and a half. And the paste rouge mixed special, too."

Sadie didn't look very subdued. Ash-toreth thought. And she reeked of Tabac Blanc.
"Swell, isn't it?" she demanded. "White tobacco—it's a funny name for perfume, ain't it?"
Ash-toreth glanced at her watch. She wondered if it was time to tele-phone Hollis. She wanted to reach him, if possible, before Monty ap-peared. It would be difficult, though, to telephone from the hall. Maizie and Sadie could hear every word. She began to evolve schemes for getting out, for a few minutes.
"Oh, mother, how soon will din-ner be ready?"
"It's ready now, dear. You can sit right down. Just cut the butter, will you, Sadie, and pour the water like a good girl. The steak's done to a turn."
"I wanted to mail a letter, Mums. Would I have time just to run down to the mail box?"
Maizie came to the door, with the pan of potatoes in her hand, whipping them to the frothy con-sistency of a meringue.
"And who are you writing letters to, Lamb?"
"Oh—nobody special. If dinner's ready, I'll wait."
"For goodness sake, Ash!" re-monstrated Sadie. "Sit down and eat."
She took her place obediently. It was a real company dinner. Food grapefruit, with a cherry in top, to begin with. . . . And Maizie had new napkins, hemstitched by hand. There were sweet peas in a little cut glass vase on the center of the table, standing on a round mirror that had been among Maizie's wed-ding presents. And pink candles in tall holders. Maizie had wound snailx around the candle sticks, and wreathed it across the mirror, and snipped the poor pink heads off a few sweet peas, and scattered them over the surface of the mir-ror.
It was very festive and pretty. And Maizie, in her Hoover apron, was pink and white as her color scheme.

Even Change In Climate Didn't Help Galger, But He Is Feeling Fine Now
"I have been trying for thirteen years to find something to help me, and three bottles of Sargon have done me more good than everything else I have taken put together. My health began to break in 1915, and

John C. Galger

I have been going down hill ever since until I found this wonderful medicine. But, now, I feel as well as I ever did.
"I suffered almost continually with indigestion and biliousness. I was badly constipated and fre-quently had severe pains in my side. I was so nervous that the least thing out of the ordinary would upset me and a good night's sleep was out of the question. My strength and en-ergy were leaving me rapidly, and I lost weight until I became alarmed. Six years ago my physician in Re-gina, Sask., where I was then living, advised me to move to another cli-mate. Then, I moved to Milwaukee, but the change did not benefit me in the least.
"A friend of mine who had taken Sargon with fine results advised me to try the medicine. I have now taken three bottles along with Sar-gon Soft Mass Pills, and I am like a different man. I now eat three big meals a day—something I haven't done before in years—and I never have any trouble from indigestion. I now sleep sound all night and get up mornings ready for a big day's work. I have been gaining weight steadily since I started taking Sar-gon. It has built me up wonder-fully and made me feel better from head to foot.
"I guess I have taken as much laxative medicine as any one man ever did, but I have never found the equal of Sargon Soft Mass Pills. They put an end to my constipa-tion, and I believe the results are permanent—something I cannot say for any other laxative I ever took."
The above statement was made a few days ago by John C. Galger, of 368 First Ave., Milwaukee. Mr. Gal-ger is connected with Beck & Pfen-der, one of the largest firms of build-ers in that city.
Sargon may be obtained in Ap-pleton from Voigt's Drug Store.

GOVERNMENT BARGE LINE
Congress has added $10,000,000 for inland waterway development, to the War department supply bill. This is a small sum, as federal expenditures go, but significant. It is all to be used in further expansion of the Inland Waterways corporation, which is a government enterprise.
Operations heretofore confined to the lower Mississippi and Warrior rivers are to be carried on there more effectively, and extended during the next three years to the Upper Mississippi and the Missouri and Illinois rivers. On the latter stream the ultimate aim evidently is connection with Chicago through its drainage canal, thus joining the Mississippi and Great lakes systems—the two greatest inland waterways in the world.

It may be considered remarkable that, with the well known opposition to government ownership and operation existing in Washington, the government should continue this enterprise and congress should encourage it with additional funds. The reasons for the seeming inconsistency are these:
The government barge lines already in operation have made good. Their service is not really competitive. There is more freight offered than they can handle with their present equipment. The railroads are cooperating with them. The upper reaches of the Mississippi and its tributaries are asking for service. It is obviously desirable to bring the Mississippi back into use as an important transportation route. When the government has established this service on a sound basis, it will gladly turn it over to private enterprise operating under a reasonable amount of government supervision.

PLENTY OF POWDER
A bulletin of the department of the interior gives information which ought to reassure people worrying about the future fuel supply. It finds that the northwestern lignite field covers 1,800 square miles in the western end of Montana. The beds are from 8 to 30 feet thick, and often there are two or three layers in succession, near the surface. It is easy to work them by the striping process, or by tunneling in from eroded banks. The deposits have been hardly scratched as yet. There are visible more than 15,000,000,000 tons. That is about as much as all the coal mined in the United States since coal was discovered.
Such coal pulverizes easily. Powdered coal is now used widely for steam purposes, fed by air-blast. It can be used in internal combustion engines instead of gas. There is powder to run all the gas engines in the world for quite a while.

THEATRICAL TASTE
"The somewhat ironical fact begs to be recorded," says a prominent dramatic writer, "that this very year of great potholes about the decay of the theater and cries of heartache and starvation along Broadway has also seen perhaps the most fruitful and distinguished year the local drama has ever known."
There is more sound, high-grade drama sent to his city from New York this season, he maintains, than ever before. And he points out that in New York itself, disregarding the musical shows, he finds a surprising number of first-class dramatic productions.
It would be interesting to check up the situation throughout the country, comparing quality with profit. Can it be that the public really does not want the best in theatrical entertainment, and that is why metropolitan Broadway and some of the minor Broadways around the country are starving this winter?

BEAUTY IN INDUSTRY
Artistic people have been complaining for years that this mechanical age was making everything ugly. But evidently the tide has turned. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, observes that industry has discovered "sales value" in beauty, and so is using machinery to produce beautiful instead of ugly things.
It does not take much inquiry to corroborate this. Automobiles alone are striking evidence of the new trend. It used to be considered more or less inevitable that motor cars should be ugly. Now nearly all of the new cars on the road are genuinely beautiful and artistic in line, proportion and color.

Beauty is seldom accidental. This development has come from a deliberate, painstaking quest for beauty. The same tendency is seen in articles of a thousand kinds. After the first struggles, the manufacturers and their designers usually find that it costs very little more to make things lovely than to make them unlovely. And there is this notable gain—people like the lovely things so much more that they buy them more readily.
Putting beauty into merchandise was formerly ugly is one of the best ways of enlarging the market. People crave beauty, whether conscious of it or not, and the more of it they get, the more they want.

"SUPERSTITION"
The municipal Kuomintang, or Nationalist soviet of Canton, China, has barred the film "Ben Hur" as "Christian propaganda, deceiving the people to superstition."
It has been the habit of revolutionists, from the French down and excepting our own struggle for freedom, to regard religion as superstition and for a time to oppose or suppress it. This tragedy has resulted from the close association of church and state in times when the state was badly at fault. The Chinese revolution has gained much of its impetus from bolshevism, and there has been no more enthusiastic seat of soviet doctrine than Canton.

The easiest and most natural attack on religion is to confuse it with temporal faiths in witches, spells, curses and the like. Chinese revolutionists distrust Christianity because it springs from western nations which have used their fleets and marines to further what the Chinese regard as imperialistic designs. So they attack it as superstition, a bar to education, a means of propaganda.
That phase will pass, just as have other temporary defections from religion. Russia has not been able to banish it. France brought it back. And China least of all will be able to hold for long the untentable notion that Christianity is one with superstition. It has as a matter of fact been almost the sole source of enlightenment in most of China for a great many years; the sole destroyer of superstition, substituting medical knowledge for the horrible witch doctor and medicine man treatment; the sole builder of sanity and the ambition to learn.

DISLIKE FOR POLICEMEN
Why is the policeman, whose main function is to protect our lives and property and make us safe, so often disliked?
Judge Henry J. Martin of Birmingham, Ala., fell to musing over this problem the other day, and decided that prohibition and automobiles are at fault.
Prohibition, because the man who wants a drink has to look on the police officer as an enemy; and automobiles, because many a man never makes contact with a policeman except when he gets a bawling out for speeding, passing a red light or something similar. The policeman, therefore, is to many people not a symbol of protection, but a symbol of restriction.
This is too bad, and it's rather tough on the police, whose jobs are hard enough anyhow. But we don't see just what can be done about it.

Chairman Robinson of the Federal Radio Commission feels that the air should be considered "cuss words," but what with state and national it will take more than an edict of the commission to regulate father.
An armored vest and a breast machine gun which starts shooting when the wearer raises his hands at the command "hands up," is a new creation for bank guards and night watchmen.
A New York woman has insured a cat for $25,000. And if it sings nightly on the fence that isn't a bad investment at all.
The average sleeper, it is said, awakens about 25 times in an ordinary night, and men are usually more restless than women.

HUMIDITY FOR HEALTH
This seems a good time to reassert the belief, which, of course, is insusceptible of proof, that damp walls, a damp cellar under the house, or the absence of a cellar, or an accumulation of water in the basement, in short anything that you may conceive under the heading of dampness, is not a factor of ill health. Damp living rooms, damp bedrooms, damp bedding or damp clothing may be uncomfortable but will never injure anybody's health or render one more susceptible to pneumonia, "rheumatism"—whatever that may be—tuberculosis, malaria, bronchitis or other illness.
Everybody knows that the weather feels colder, or, as we say, the cold is "penetrating," when the humidity is comparatively high, when the air is damp; and on the other hand the air does not feel so cold if it is fairly dry. Zero or sub-zero temperatures in a comparatively dry climate or place are not so cold to one feeling, not so "chilling" as temperatures, ten or twenty degrees higher in climates or places where there is more moisture in the air.
Water vapor in the atmosphere is a good heat conductor compared with dry air. The body heat is more easily dissipated to the surrounding air when the air is moist.
In a hot climate the heat is less depressing, easier to endure if the air is fairly dry; with increasing moisture or humidity the tropical climate becomes less endurable. The same principle is involved—water vapor in the air conducts the heat from the body, but it hinders evaporation of the sweat, and that it the more important factor in the cooling of the body, or the dissipation of body heat.
An householder who installs an effective means of evaporating water in the air in the winter time or when the dwelling is artificially heated soon discovers that everybody feels comfortable at a more moderate temperature than everybody demanded before the humidifying equipment was brought into use.
A household temperature of 65 to 68 feels as comfortable, indeed more so, than 70 or 72, and grandpapa, uncle and the girls than did temperatures of 72 to 75 before the humidity was corrected. If this does not seem consistent with the explanation just given, the best way to settle the question for yourself is, try it in your own household.
The ideal installation is built in and automatic. This costs something and is worth all it costs. Most people must resort to ordinary schemes for providing desirable moisture in the air. Unless a substantial quantity of water is evaporated daily it is scarcely worth while; people should not be misled into thinking that a more calson or two of water evaporated in a dwelling, no matter how tiny, can be of any appreciable service; for an ordinary dwelling it is necessary to evaporate thirty to sixty gallons of water daily in order to maintain the humidity at even a fair level when the air is heated to 65. This is accomplished by simple pans of water on radiators or registers, with many folds of absorbent wicking suspended over and dipping into the water. Mera open pans of water will not evaporate so much.
Besides saving on the winter's fuel bill moisture in the air keeps everybody's temper and complexion smooth and is kind to mucous membranes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Remedy for Ivy Poisoning
Mrs. J. A. B. R. reports that after a painful experience she found a simple remedy that brought relief to her ivy poisoning. This was prescribed by an old-fashioned country doctor. The doctor may have been old-fashioned and a mere country doctor, but evidently he knows his "herbariology." He directed the sufferer to keep the inflamed skin wet with a strong solution of Epsom salts. She kept white stockings on her arms, saturated with the solution. It worked like magic. Mrs. R. says she has since resorted to the remedy several times when she happened to come in contact with poison ivy, but she has never suffered another attack of such severity. She adds that common yellow laundry soap, if applied as a lather immediately after exposure will counter ivy poison.
Answer—Both remedies are good. Another that has been praised by many victims, is a lotion made by mixing equal quantities of tincture of iron chloride and water. This may be sopped gently on the inflamed patches once or twice a day.
They Do Some Things Differently Abroad
A woman who has recently come from Westphalia, Germany, tells me her mother nursed a family of six children until they were seven years old, and the last, a boy, was nursed until he was eight years old. In the same town they bury their dead in paper shirts, plain wood coffins which are sometimes painted and the shavings of the boards are put under the head and filled around the body.
(Almost a Neighbor.)
Answer—Here in America, at least, we find that nursing over a year is a stain on the health of the mother and inadequate for the normal nutrition of the child. I admire and respect the Westphalian simplicity about burial. We might well follow the example here in this land of extravagance and heathenish display.

Nevus or Birthmark
Some time ago someone asked you what to do for a red spot in the skin. You said it was nevus and that it could be removed by operation. What causes nevus? There's no use paying to have them removed when you'll get a dozen more.
(P. H.)
Answer—Nevus is a mark, mole or spot present at birth or becoming apparent in the first few weeks of life. One surgical method or another, will best meet the requirement. Nevus never returns when obliterated.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON
BY HERBERT C. PLUMMER
Washington—There's an old proverb that some seek fame, while others have fame thrust upon them.
Into this latter class has come late the first Mexican-American United States senator—Octaviano Larrazolo, elected last November to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Jones of New Mexico.
Senator Larrazolo stepped into the spotlight unintentionally—and a cigar was responsible.
Since the days of Senator "Pitchfork" Ben Tillman of South Carolina there has been an ironclad rule forbidding members to smoke on the floor of the senate during sessions.
But how was the new senator to know this?
ONE LITTLE SMOKE
A cigar with the gentleman from New Mexico is a thing to be indulged in whenever one feels the urge. Therefore the other day while listening to a debate he calmly

Adventures In The Library
By Arnold Mulder
THE SECOND GENERATION
Encouraged apparently by the success of his novel, "Giants in the Earth," O. E. Rolvaag has now published what amounts to a continuation of that story. The title of his new book is "Peder Victorious."
"Giants in the Earth," those will remember who read that book last year, closed on a note of tragedy—wholly unnecessary tragedy it seemed to me. The pioneer of that story who had trekked all the way from Norway to the prairies of Dakota, went out into a blizzard to fetch a minister for a dying man and never came back; in the spring his body was found and against a straw-stack.
He had gone into the blizzard a fit of temper because his half-crazed wife, a religious fanatic, insisted on it. The woman was left alone with several small children, one of them, Peder Victorious, a mere baby. It is this Peder Victorious who is the hero of the new novel.
The new Rolvaag book has a familiar but a very worthwhile theme. It is the well known theme of the second generation. America. The subject has been treated a thousand times. Wherever there is a novelist who has grown up among pioneer conditions there is sure to be a novelist who tries his hand at this theme. It takes a thousand forms but the idea behind all these books is fundamentally the same.
What do the children of immigrants do and think and feel? How do they adjust themselves on the one hand to a society, that was alien to their parents and on the other hand to the parents and their associates of the first generation? How does the language of another country spoken in the home handicap them when they are supposed to learn the language of American in school?
These and a hundred other questions like them are usually answered in a novel of the second generation. The questions are inevitable and the answers are almost always the same. It does not matter whether it is the second generation of Norwegians, as in this case, or of Germans or of Italians. The old people invariably cling not merely to the language of the home country but to the home traditions, the home ways of thinking. The second generation becomes infected with the American spirit of push and progress and jazz and there is conflict in the household.
In this case Peder's mother makes a fetish of the Norwegian language. (The Bible in English is an abomination to her and so is preaching in any language but Norwegian. She sincerely believes, as is the case with many immigrants from other lands, that the mother tongue is inherently more religious than the English language. She thinks in her heart that it is Norwegian, just as many a staunch Hollander thinks God is Dutch and many a German immigrant feels that the deity must be German in spirit.)
The story of "Peder Victorious" does not matter much. All those second generation stories are about the same because they must be the same human nature being what it is.
"Peder Victorious" is not as strong a novel as "Giants in the Earth." The author seems to lose his way from time to time and the book impresses me as having been written to order, not for the love of it, as seemed to be the case with the earlier novel.
Beret, the slightly "cracked" mother, is rather well done. Rolvaag seems to understand the first generation much better than the second. She became "queer" out of sheer loneliness on the prairie in pioneer days and her queerness is cleverly brought out in the second volume.
But most of the other characters are not highly significant. The book is conscientiously written but that is about all that can be said for it.

lighted one, leaned back in his chair and serenely smoked it down to the stump. Still unconcerned, he flipped it in a nearby cuspidor.
Worshippers of senate etiquette sat there aghast. They tried to attract Senator Larrazolo's attention, but in vain. It was a tense moment while that cigar was being pulled down. However, none of his colleagues was bold enough to tell him that he was out of order.
But it is a safe bet that the senator will not be guilty of this offense again. No doubt a polite hint from his colleagues was forthcoming immediately.

THAT FAMOUS REMARK
All of which recalls the famous remark made by the late Vice-President Marshall in his capacity as president of the senate. It has since become a stock expression.
A distinguished senator had been speaking at some length. In one burst of oratory after another he had been telling his colleagues what was wrong with the country and declaring that the nation's only salvation was this and that.
The vice president took it all in. After the senator had concluded and taken his seat he arose and remarked drily:
"What this country really needs is a good five-cent cigar."
There are some senators, however, who are not affected by the anti-tobacco rule. These are the ones who enjoy the weed in a different manner. Care has been exercised to see that cuspidors are at convenient ranges for these gentlemen.

BARBS
Correspondents neglected to mention that the betrothal of Helen Wills, queen of the tennis courts, and young Moody of San Francisco was a love match.
A 10-year-old boy in Alton, Miss., wears size 25 shoes. We were going to say that he ought to make a wonderful cop, but have considerable doubt about whether he'd fit in the traffic department.
Senator Glass says he never knew a speech to change a vote. Oftentimes, however, a vote will change a speech.
Prince Nikita, who has been receiving $60 a month as a bank clerk in Paris, has been designated heir to the fallen throne of the Romanoffs.
The prince hasn't quit at the bank yet, though.
A convict wrote a book of poems while in Sing Sing. Probably had given up all hope of parole for good behavior.
Schools are offering correspondence courses in saxophone playing and now there is a reason for shooting the mailman.

CHILDREN TIRE QUICKLY AND NEED SLEEP

A few days ago I saw a weary mother with two little boys approach the one vacant chair in a department store waiting-room.

Naturally I thought she would sit down. But she didn't. She said, "There's room there for both of you. Climb up, boys. You rest a little while, then I'll sit down."

The little fellows were a pretty tight fit but they managed it; they leaned their heads on the back and rocked away for dear life for about five minutes.

Then the mother said, "Now it's my turn. You stand."

They were rested then — children rest more quickly than grown-ups — and down they slid. The mother dropped with a weary sigh. She sat there for ten minutes or so, then they all went away.

The thing that surprised me was that this mother realized that her children were as tired as she was, and she didn't make them wait as many other mothers would have done. "They're just children. Their mind being tired," is so often our attitude toward little people, and it's all wrong.

YOUNG FOLK TIRE QUICKLY

Children get tired very easily. And when they get overtired their nervous systems become upset and that makes them sick. They should rest often, if only for very short periods at a time. Half the stomach trouble of children comes from eating when they are too tired.

I think it is an excellent plan. We can call on children to go and get this, and run for that, and bring us the other thing, never thinking of the miles they run in a day. Don't we take advantage of their littleness and willingness to boss them around and make them do things our own lazy old legs just don't care to?

Of course we do — we never stop to think.

Children will keep on going long after they are tired out. Some way or other we have to stop them ourselves. It is up to parents to observe the signs of fatigue, whether from work or play, and say, "That's enough. Now it's down."

And so, when Mary comes home from school it is all right to send her on an errand, but not two or three in four errands. If she is very tired to begin with, don't send her on any at all.

A SPANKING SHOT

Pittsburgh — When Mrs. Nellie Garrett again finds it necessary to chastise her son, she will not use a sawed-off shotgun for a paddle. The youth had about completed arrangements to buy the weapon from another boy, when the mother intervened. She took hold of the muzzle and proceeded to emphasize previous instructions about firearms. Then the gun went off and a bullet lodged in Mrs. Garrett's abdomen.

Intricate Evening Frock Displaces Simple Little Frock Of Yesterday

Each of the new party frocks has distinctive touches. (Left to right) A black faille taffeta lines its trailing bouffant skirt with Chinese red and appliques right into its skirt the five end of a fan-shaped rear bow. A very full overskirt is organ-pleated into a printed chiffon informal frock in a new and charming manner. Worth gives us a long, flaring side train in one of his new evening gowns, a rich blue metal cloth, embroidered in pearls and sapphires.

BY HENRI BENDEL For NEA Service

New York — If one doubts that fashions have entirely changed in line and feeling, a glance at any collection of party dresses will be most convincing.

Where is the "simple little evening frock" that was to be seen by the dozens even six months ago. By that I mean those frocks that were more or less perfectly plain, straight line, without adornment.

Such frocks are not to be found today. Every party dress contributes something individual in its cut, trimming, neckline, waist treatment or in some other way presents a change from the very simple.

Studied simplicity there still is, and always will be where women of taste are concerned. But simplicity in dress today is really the most disarming kind of sophisticated planning.

Among the characteristics that distinguish new party frocks from old are such things as much greater length, trains—especially on the side, skirt fullness, distinctive necklines, girdles and sashes and new materials that are royally gorgeous.

Pompadour taffetas are among the most popular of new party gown fabrics. Faille taffetas are excellent, also, finely printed chiffons, brocades, chiffons in rich plain colors, netts, tulle, spangled point d'esprit, and lace.

Very new and charming for the very young matron or girl is a black faille taffeta, lightened by Chinese red. Its bodice is tight, its girdle swathing to the hips and its bouffant skirt trails to form a fan train in the back. This skirt has scalloped edges and, since it is lined with the Chinese red taffeta, is charming when its wearer dances.

Two things contribute youth to this gown. There is a stunning bow of Chinese red taffeta, with five trailing rounded ends, placed at the center back waistline. This bow has its ends spread like a fan and applied right into the dress, with a pattern of gold beads spreading from it into the dress. The neckline is its second new touch, a novelty V neck, with gold beaded shoulder straps.

INFORMAL PRINTS

For informal occasions printed chiffons are excellent this year. In a black and red printed little dress we have several new notes. The bodice is the popular surplus, but the skirt has an organ-pleated overskirt that gives excessive fullness. It is posed on the bodice to give a swathed back hipline and nearly reaches the floor in the back.

A side train gown comes from Worth bringing individual touches to prove the supremacy of the new styles over the old. Its fabric is a bright blue metal cloth embroidered in silver. It has a sweet little narrow yoke of pearls and sapphires, lingerie shoulder straps also of pearls and sapphires and a handsome ornament of pearls, sapphire and tassels of matching silk catches the side train at the low left hipline.

This train flares, in circular manner to give a fan train of some width and two to three feet on the floor.

CLUB WOMEN IN TENNESSEE WORK REFORMS

Chattanooga, Tenn.—(AP)—Youngsters in the mountain regions no longer are not given tobacco to chew and their vocabularies have become purged of naughty words through the work of club women of Tennessee.

Mrs. Clarence S. Steward, chairman of the Margaret Henry endowment fund of the Tennessee Federation of Women's Clubs, reports also that the calico wrapper, once the sole garb of the mountain woman, has given way to modern hats and dresses which the women make with their own hands.

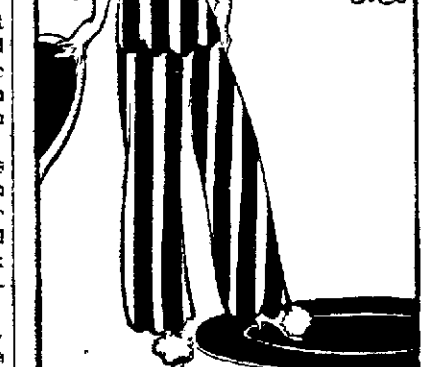

In 1902, when Margaret Henry began the mountain division work, she found—no schools, people without education walking miles to have their letters read, deformities among children in nearly every home, sickened, rampant, food cooked in one pot for several families over a spits fire. Mrs. Steward's report for 1928 shows an eight months' school term with 100 per cent daily attendance, crude but clean homes, mothers and fathers reading and answering letters, disease under control, grammar school averages some of the highest made in the state.

The giant then said, "Me, oh my. I do not think you'd care to try to play with all the Trouble Tots. They've had as they can be. They always get into a mess. You'd understand it all I guess, if you just knew the crazy tricks that they have played on me."

"The giant's right," wee Scenty cried. "It's better that they've run to hide. We've never seen those tots before, and we do not know of all the trouble they can cause. It's always best to think and pause before you make new friends. I'm glad that we have let them go."

THE NEW Saint Sinner By Anne Austin

"Please don't keep us in suspense, Nils!" Cherry begged. "I just know that girl was Crystal!"

"Maybe not," Nils replied. "The girl, whoever she was, seemed nervous and overwrought, although she tried to be very gay and was talkative. Mrs. Plimpton says she concluded that the girl was running away from home. They'd met her struggling down the road with a heavy suitcase in her hand, and offered her a lift, thinking she would get out at the first railroad station, but she seemed excited and nervously elated when they told her they were driving clear to Kansas City."

"And then Plimpton says at first he thought she might be the Jefferson girl that everyone was looking for, but they had a Stanton paper with them that they'd bought on the road and he compared his passenger's features with the picture of the Jefferson girl and saw there was no resemblance. About 75 miles from Stanton, he thinks it was the girl suddenly became almost hysterical about wanting to go home again, and there was nothing to do but let her out. Plimpton stopped the car on the state highway between towns—somewhere near Beamish—"

"Beamish!" Bob interrupted. "By George! That's the town where the ransom letter was postmarked."

"You said a while ago that there was something else," Cherry reminded him excitedly.

"Yes—there was something else," Nils admitted. "Plimpton and his wife were worried about letting her out of the car that way, and drove away slowly, to watch her as long as possible. And while they were watching a car with two men—"

"Two who mean business!" Cherry quoted from the ransom letter. "Oh, I'm frightened to death. Hold my hand hard, Nils!"

"Then why the devil didn't they go back to protect her?" Bob demanded.

Nils shrugged. "Plimpton did begin to buck up his car, but the two men in the roadster saw him and drove on, and the girl began to walk toward Stanton, lugging her suitcase toward Stanton. She'd evidently refused a 'pick-up' but of course Plimpton couldn't keep the other car in sight for long and there's a possibility that the men doubled back and—"

"Kidnaped her," Cherry supplied. "But of course they pretended they were giving her a lift back to Stanton, and wormed a lot of information out of her. Which wouldn't be hard. Crystal always did talk too much."

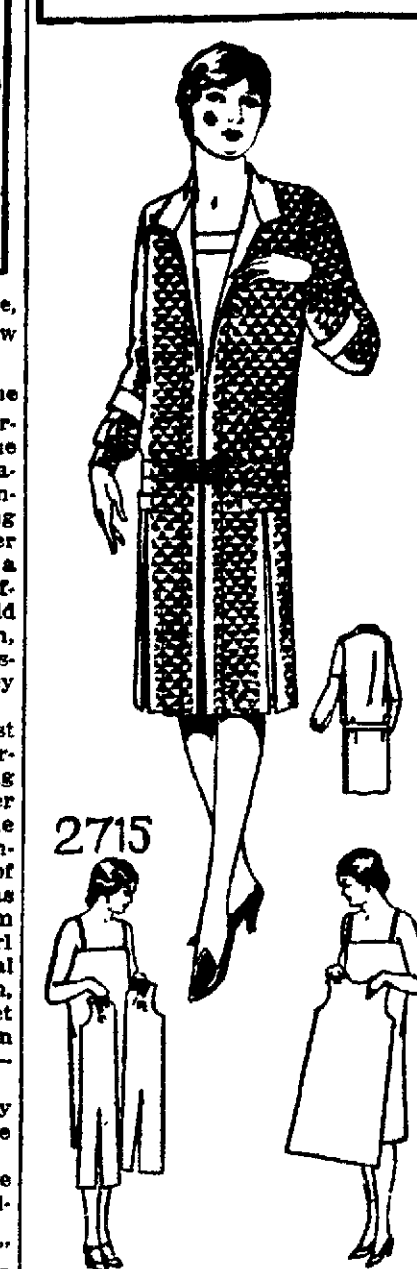

"And so do you!" her husband reminded her, rather severely. "Well, Bob, is it worth while turning the information over to the police?"

"I should say so!" Bob was emphatic. "There's a detective stationed at our phone now. I'll have him in and you can tell your story. Any idea how we could get in touch with those Plimptons for a more detailed description of the girl and the two men in the roadster?"

Nils considered. "They said something about stopping over for three or four days in Kansas City. I imagine the quickest way would be to wire them there, care of the tourists' camp. That's where they will be."

New Ensemble

The style presented is the new daytime ensemble frock, for it opens at front, revealing a slip to contribute to its smartness and color combination. The open fronts are rolled in reverse and have inverted plaits at each side of center. It is sketched in printed and plain silk crepe. Two tones of silk crepe, two surfaces of crepe satin or printed and plain sheer woolen is interesting idea.

The pattern of style No. 2715 is extremely simple to use, as it is shown in picture lessons exactly how every part is made. Cuts in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. The pattern is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew.

DIVERS SEEK ARMS OF VENUS DE MILO

Rome — There is a stir on the island of Milo. Divers are engaged in a hunt for the arms of the famous Venus de Milo statue, the original of which is in the Paris Louvre. The search comes as the result of a story to the effect that the arms were lost in the harbor during a fight between French marines and inhabitants of the island. Proponents of the story are certain the arms were broken off in the struggle and dropped into the Aegean sea.

Venus de Milo statue is one of the finest pieces of Greek statuary extant. It dates from the second century A. D. and is regarded as one of the most perfect expositions of the female body ever carved out of stone.

Circulating Toyery Gotham Innovation

BY JULIA BLANSHARD NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK—"Toyeries" are the latest innovation in this metropolis.

By "toyeries" is meant circulating collections of toys that, like books from the free public libraries can go into the poorest homes. Tots who have no toys of their own will be able to choose and take home for given periods of time any toys their little hearts desire.

PLAN WINS MUCH SUPPORT

Mrs. Ida Cash, probation officer of the Children's Court, is the originator of the idea. Mrs. Otto Kahn, Judge Jean Norris, Caleb Baumes and innumerable other influential people interested in the welfare of poor little New Yorkers are giving their supporters to it.

"We expect to start the first 'toyery' early this spring, in one of the East Side's most congested and poorest spots, where there are the fewest facilities for play," Mrs. Cash stated.

"The idea of the 'toyery' came partly from the realization that each year there are increasing numbers of children delinquents brought before the court for stealing toys," she continued.

"In addition to preventing crime, we expect our 'toyeries' to be instruments of education. Children play with toys long before they read. Therefore, in very squalid, crowded quarters, 'toyeries' may be as beneficial to pre-school children as libraries are to older ones.

"We will have toys that are durable, can be fumigated and are chosen with scientific care for their educational or recreational value."

DOLLS TO BE TABOO

"We will have construction toys, wagons, scooters, bicycles, airplanes, puppets, printing presses, moving picture machines and games such as checkers, or ping pong. We may eventually have a fund for giving away dolls. But they are taboo in our circulation 'toyeries' idea because they are too personal. Children get so attached to them it would be wrong to lend them only to take them away again.

"The plan is to have reference rooms in 'toyeries' like reading rooms in the library, where children who have no space at home to play may put in an afternoon or evening. But the main function will be to lend toys for use at home.

"Playgrounds are indispensable in our child life now. But there is no time for reflection in playgrounds. Therefore, if children can take their construction toys home and figure them out, the reflection is bound to be beneficial and contribute to character building. We feel, for instance, that if Lindberg had had to do all his figuring on a playground he would not have succeeded."

TO ANTICIPATE BREAKAGE

"Furthermore, there is a possibility that even temporary ownership of a desirable toy can teach children a respect for property that might discourage the idea of stealing. We have been asked what we can do about breakage and other destructive things that might happen. We merely point to libraries. Books are destroyed, of course, in some instances. But it is only a small percentage."

The founding of New York's first "toyery" is watched with extreme interest by psychologists and sociologists and others specializing in child-life, if the first one succeeds, the committee announces that others will follow and within a year New York will have several. The results of the first one will be studied by psychology classes at New York University.

The New York "toyery" committee has among its members such eminent persons as the following: Mrs. Ripley Hitchcock, Judge Samuel D. Levy, Mrs. Myron Borg, Dr. R. M. Snyder, professor of psychology at New York University; Dr. Beran W. Wolfe, psychiatrist; Mrs. Knopf, Child Study Association of America; Bernard Sagan, chief probation officer of the Children's Court of Greater New York; Mrs. Ida Cash and Caleb Baumes, crime commissioner.

BEHIND "TOYERY" PLAN

Of the "toyery" plan, Baumes said: "I am much interested in this movement. I have long thought that a big mistake that American people are making is their lack of attention to the American child. I want to be put down as strongly in favor of 'toyeries.'"

Change in Men's Clothes

Sailing Baruch Edward Stotesbury

BY CURTIS WOOD NEA Service Writer

PALE BEACH Before one can fill his lungs with warmth and sunshine, the change in men's clothes hits one in the eye here.

It always is surprising to come from the North with its overcoats, derbies and other heavy winter clothes and see white flannels, light grey, tan and striped suits and other mid-summer attire.

Hats, shoes and ties strike me first. Neckwear always has been about the only way conservative man can show there's a fair for something different racing in his soul. Brocade ties, brilliantly hued, patterned ties, ties with reds, blues and yellows predominating are quite the usual thing here. Men are on vacation. Ties can be what they will!

As for shoes, black and white and tan and white are almost ubiquitous. Saddles, tips and heels of calf adorn buck or other white leathers.

Hats are as individual as their wearers. Panamas and novelty straw, mostly in off-whites, with rolled or snap brims, have more width on sides than winter hats. And much more brilliant bandings that winter allows.

Two of the first snappily attired men I saw were Sailing Baruch and Edward T. Stotesbury.

Baruch had a two-button sack suit in tan, a tannish silk shirt, a brocade tie in browns, tan and a bit of red on a tan background, tan and white sports shoes and a very ornate headpiece of a novelty straw in rather a brownish tan, banded with a wide band.

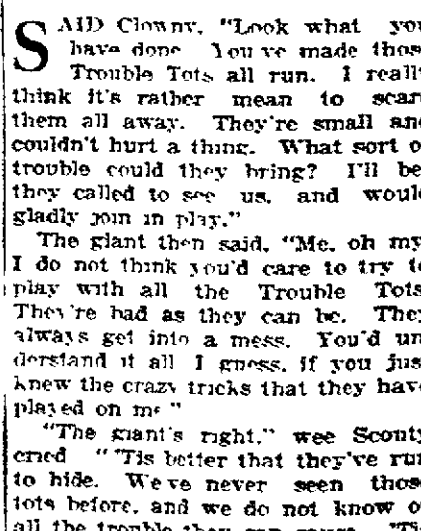

Stotesbury, one of Philadelphia's best dressers, upheld his reputation in as natty a grey black and white get-up as can be. His white flannel trousers had a pin-stripe of dark grey and were topped by a one-button coat and rather high vest of grey striped worsted. He wore a richly brocade silk colored tie, with a neat pearl stick-pin holding it. His panama hat had rather a low crown and wide sides and his shoes were white buck, tipped and saddled in rather a fancy manner, in black.

FEATURES OF THE NEW FORD

Safety

ONE of the outstanding features of the new Ford is its mechanical, internal-expanding six-brake system.

This is unusually reliable and effective in action because the braking surfaces of all six brakes are fully enclosed. There is no possibility of mud, water, sand, road dirt or grease entering the brake mechanism or getting between the bands and drum and impairing brake performance.

The use of steel forgings wherever there is a possibility of wear in the chassis of the car, the sturdy steel body construction, balance, ease of operation and control and a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield are other important safety features.

Comfort

You have a feeling of mental comfort in driving the new Ford because you are sure of its mechanical reliability. No matter how long the trip or rough or devious the roadway, you know it will bring you safely, quickly to the journey's end.

Physically, too, you will feel fresh and relaxed in the new Ford because it is such a roomy, comfortable car. Seats are wide and deeply cushioned, with backs designed to conform to the curves of the body.

Even on comparatively rough stretches, there are no hard bumps or jolts, nor exag-

SERVICE

"IT HAS always been our belief that a sale does not complete the transaction between us and the buyer, but establishes a new obligation on us to see that his car gives him service. We are as much interested in his economical operation of the car as he is in our economical manufacture of it.

"For that reason we have installed a system of controlled service to take care of all Ford car needs in an economical and improved manner. We wish all users of Ford cars to know what they are entitled to in this respect, so that they may readily avail themselves of this service."

Henry Ford

of Ford dealers, and close supervision of service are additional reasons for the economy of the new Ford.

The cost of new parts is also low because of the established Ford policy of doing business at a small margin of profit.

Beauty

The new Ford is distinguished by its quiet simplicity of line and air of sturdy strength. Without being extreme, it has struck a new note in motor car designing. A particularly pleasing feature is a choice of beautiful colors in all body types without additional cost.

The upholstery is of woolen material, rich and luxurious, yet long-wearing. Fenders are heavy and gracefully contoured. Instrument panel—door handles—window lifts—interior trimming and finish—all reveal a quality of material and a careful workmanship unusual in a low-price car.

Ease of Control

Another outstanding feature of the new Ford is its ease of operation and control.

The steering wheel answers to the touch of a finger. Gears shift silently, smoothly. Brakes take hold quickly, firmly even on rain-swept pavements. Quick acceleration and alert speed are especially appreciated in traffic and emergencies. A space little longer than the car itself is all you need for parking.

All of these things simplify the mechanics of motoring and add a great deal to the joy and comfort of motoring. Particularly to a woman, they mean driving without strain or fatigue.

Smooth Speed

Everywhere you go, you note the alert, capable performance of the new Ford. You can judge its acceleration by the way it gets away in traffic. A smooth stretch on the open road gives a revealing measure of its speed. The way it climbs the hills in high is an indication of its abundant power.

The new Ford will do 55 to 65 miles an hour, which is probably faster than you will ever need to go. Far more important is the way it rolls along at 35 and 40 and 45. This is your average driving speed and you can maintain it smoothly, easily, comfortably for hours in the new Ford.

Reliability

The new Ford is reliable in performance because of its carefully planned simplicity of design and the enduring quality that has been built into every part.

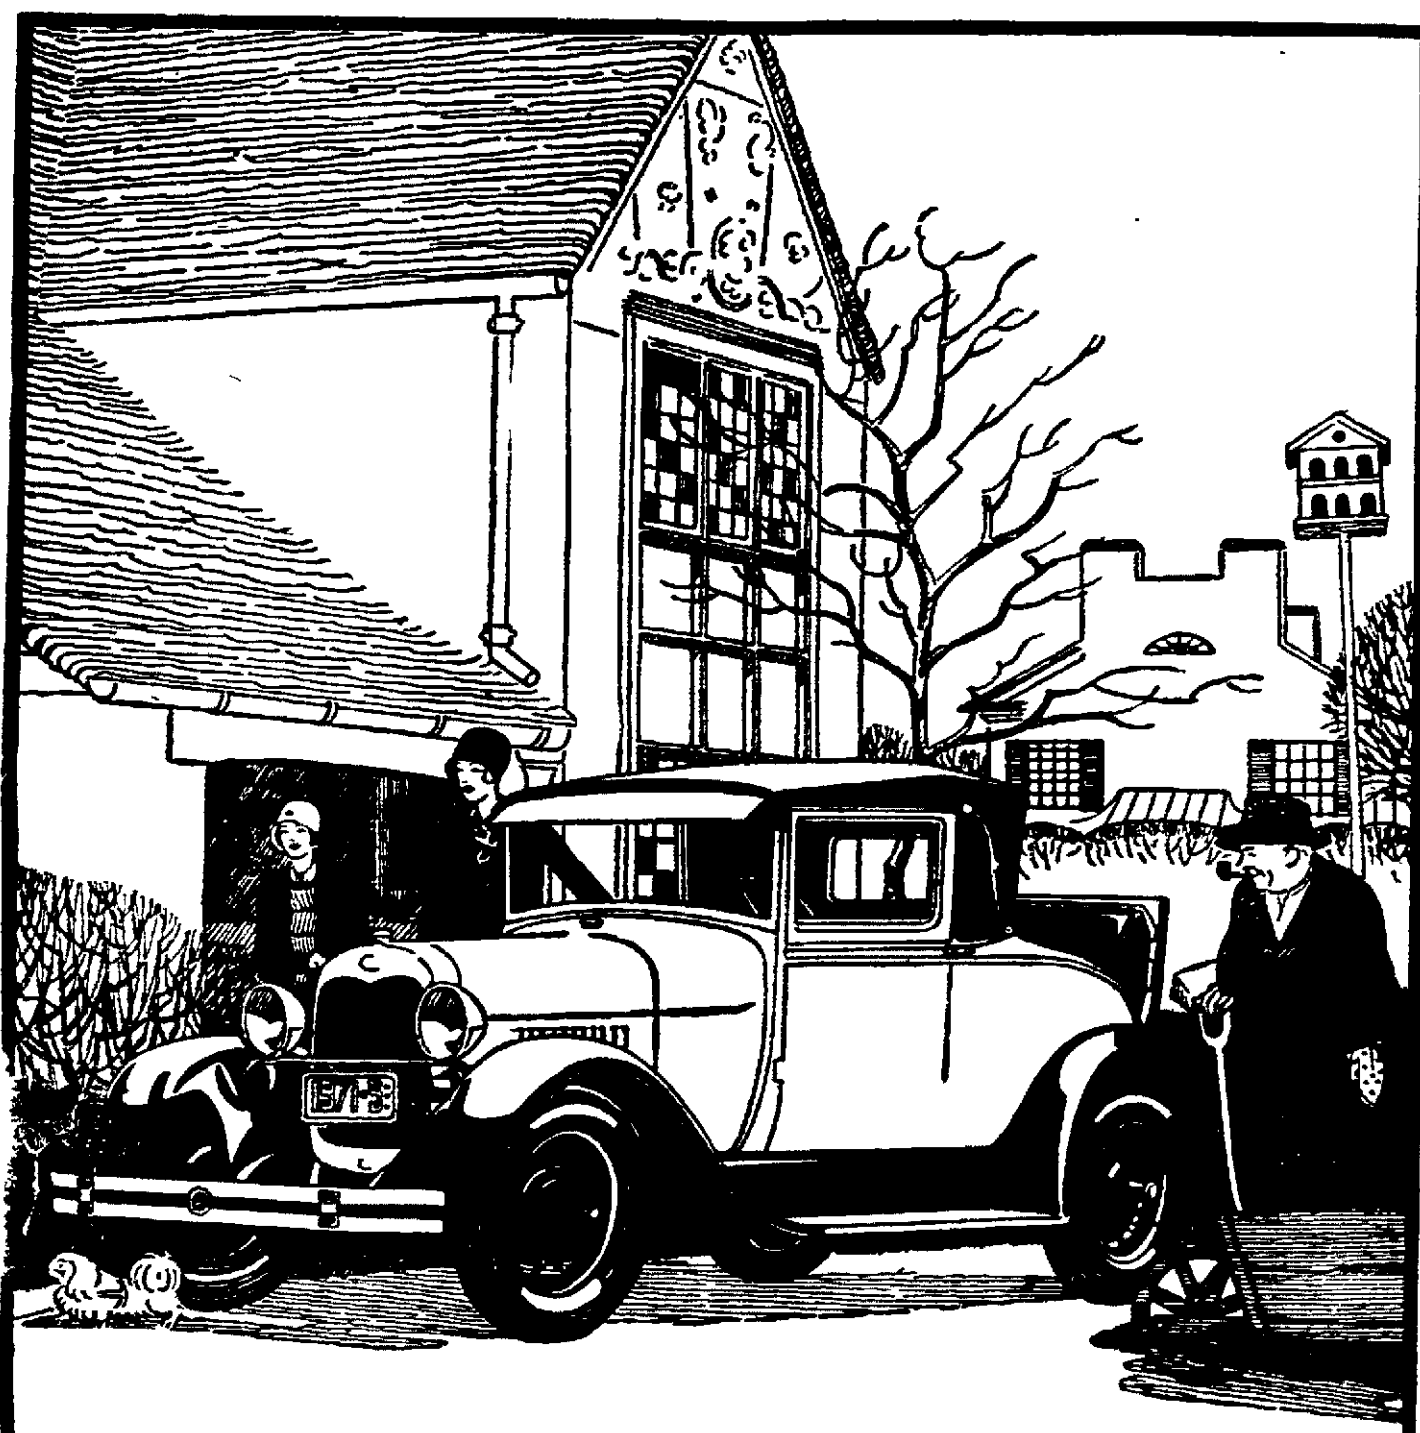

Throughout, it has been made to give you many thousands of miles of pleasant, enjoyable motoring at a minimum of trouble and expense. From every part of the world come letters from Ford owners commenting on this reliability, and giving specific data on unusual performance.

Thousands of the new Fords have been driven more than 50,000 miles in the past year. Some, used night and day, have passed the 100,000-mile mark. There is no telling how far they will go. The average life of the Model T was seven years. We believe this new car will do better than that.

Economy

The new Ford is an economical car to own and drive because of the low cost of operation and up-keep. It averages more than 20 miles per gallon of gasoline and the cost of tires and oil is also low.

Low first cost, the security of a fair trade-in value, the availability

The following marriage licenses were issued by the county clerk during the past week: Erwin Greud and Miss Florentyn Kuehn, both of the town of Brothertown; Elmer Schwabe of Brillville and Miss Linda Krueger of Reedsville.

The Binsfeld Tire shop, which was badly damaged by fire in November, is being repaired and as soon as finished John Binsfeld will open it up for business, doing general automobile repairing.

STATE TWELFTH IN INCOME TAXES

Wisconsin Total Drops, However, from $42,928,673 to $38,137,697

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Washington—Only 11 states in the country paid more income tax in 1928 than Wisconsin and in this comparative rating the state managed to maintain its place on the list in spite of a drop in its total from $42,928,673.18 to $38,137,697.91 as compared with the previous year, the annual comparative table of federal taxes, made public today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue shows.

In total taxes paid to the federal government, residents of the state registered a drop of more than $7,000,000 paying $40,689,071.12 in 1928 and $48,273,116.07 in 1927. This figure put Wisconsin fourteenth on the list of states. Miscellaneous federal taxes took $2,551,373.21 out of the state in 1928, accounting for much of the total decline, the figure for 1927 being $5,444,442.89.

Whatever drop was registered in income taxes was due to the corporation levy, which fell from $22,071,115.73 in 1927 to $25,465,339.70 in 1928. Individual income taxes increased from $9,857,557.45 to $12,672,358.21.

For the United States as a whole income taxes in 1928 amounted to $2,189,417,231.64 as compared with $2,195,506,998.96 the year before, a drop of $26,089,767.32. National miscellaneous taxes fell $17,692,949.95 to $605,859,724.59 and the total amount received from taxation by the government in 1928 was $2,775,276,956.23, or $43,782,717.27 less than in 1927.

The reduction in income taxes, however, was not enjoyed by the individual payers, whose levies increased $75,811,734.03 while the corporation levy dropped off $101,901,551.33.

There are approximately 73,300 miles of properly-organized air routes in the world.

Railroads Earn More In 1928 Despite Freight Lag

New York—(P)—Although the freight business of the railroads fell off slightly in 1928, the railroads attained the highest levels of operating efficiency in their history, and were able to show fair gains in net operating income over the previous year.

The American Railway Association reports that 51,576,731 cars were loaded with freight during 1928. This almost equals the total for 1927, with a decrease of only 59,075 cars, or one-tenth of 1 percent. It falls under the 1926 total, however, by 1,522,038 cars, or 2.9 percent.

The brisk upturn in industry during the latter months of 1928 was reflected by a sharp improvement in car loadings, which had lagged below both 1927 and 1926 in the early months. During certain weeks late in the year, loadings even exceeded the like weeks of 1926. The high total of 1926 was in part due to the heavy movement of coal for export to England, where the mines were then paralyzed by a strike.

The increasing movement of freight by motor truck in recent years has made the total freight car loadings a less accurate measure of business activity than previously. The high efficiency of the railroads, however, has been a large factor in the present business stability, as prompt deliveries have eliminated the necessity of keeping large stocks of goods on hand.

The movement of merchandise in less than car loads lots, coal, livestock and forest products declined last year, while shipments of grain and grain products, ore and miscellaneous freight, increased.

HAIR TONIC DRINKERS ARE LUCKY IN DENMARK

Copenhagen, Denmark—(P)—Danish barbers have won an important victory over the government.

Here, as everywhere, the law demands that toilet preparations containing spirits must be made undrinkable by adding a certain amount of colcoquinta. The barbers succeeded in proving that this drug was injurious to their hands and consequently harmful to the scalp.

Unless some substitute is found, therefore, Danish hair tonics will be available for beverage purposes.

100 STUDENTS ON ROOSEVELT JUNIOR HIGH HONOR ROLL

LIST AIR RATES TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Mail Fees Announced in Bulletin Received at Apple-ton Postoffice

A table listing air mail fees ap-plicable to articles for foreign coun-tries has been received at the local postoffice. The fees are as follows:

For any article addressed to a for-eign country, except Canada and Mexico, and intended to be trans-mitted by air in this country ex-clusively, the air mail fee, in addi-tion to the ordinary postage and reg-istry or special delivery fees, if any, is four cents for the first ounce or fraction and eight cents for each additional ounce or fraction.

For articles addressed for delivery in Canada, the fee, which in this case includes the ordinary postage but not the registry or special del-ivery fees, for air mail service in the United States and in both the United States and Canada, is five cents for the first ounce or fraction and 10 cents for each additional ounce or fraction. These same fees have now been extended to articles for Mexico intended for transmission by air in the United States or in both the United States and Mexico.

For transmission by air from Miami to Havana or Nassau, the fee, in addition to the ordinary postage and registry or special delivery fees, is five cents for each half ounce or fraction.

For transmission by air from Miami to Porto Rico, the Dominican republic, and Haiti, the air mail fee, in addition to the ordinary post-age and the registry or special del-ivery fees, is 10 cents for each half ounce or fraction.

For air mail service from Miami to the Canal zone, the fee in addition to the ordinary postage and the registry or special delivery fee, is 25 cents for each half ounce or fraction.

POSTAL OFFICIALS ARE PRAISED FOR CHRISTMAS WORK

Appleton postal officials were com-mended in a letter from John H. Bartlett, assistant postmaster general, received Saturday by F. Wettenfel, acting postmaster, for the manner in which they handled the mail during the rush period at Christmas.

Mr. Bartlett praised the "splen-did spirit which, despite the fact that the regular force was handi-capped by a loss of an average of seven men every day with sick-ness, was displayed." He pointed out that the service was better than could have been expected under the circumstances and he specifically praised the office for cleaning up all parcel post matter each day.

LOCAL MEN ATTEND PLUMBERS MEETING

State Plumbers and Instruc-tors at Milwaukee Con-ference

Seven local men expected to at-tend state wide conference for the promotion of educational opportu-nities in the plumbing industry of Wis-consin at the Pfister hotel, Milwau-kee, Monday. The conference is es-pecially arranged for vocational school directors, coordinators and plumbing instructors, and for mem-bers of local and state apprentice-ship committees.

Those who were to go are M. M. Hanson, itinerant of the plumbing industry at the vocational school; Herb Heilig, director; Conrad Ver-brick, A. J. Baur, Harry Shafer, Thomas Long, and Walter Van Ryzin. Among the state directors and plumbing engineers who will be present are E. E. Gunn, Jr., assistant state director of vocational educa-tion; Frank R. King, state plumbing and domestic sanitary engineer, and Wal-ter Simon, state supervisor of ap-prenticeship.

Still Thin

Still young, still lovely

So easy to fight fat

Have you wondered why the extra-fat people of old days have so largely dis-appeared? The chief reason lies in a scientific discovery made some 25 years ago. Medical research found that a great cause of excess fat lay in a defective gland. A way to correct it was dis-covered. Since then, physicians the world over have employed this method in the fight on fat.

A famous medical laboratory perfected the utmost in this method in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 21 years—millions of boxes of them. You can see the results wherever you look. Excess fat in men and women is nowhere near as common as it was. No starvation, no over-work, corrects the cause of excess fat, but moderation helps. When the cause lies in a defective gland, that cause must be corrected.

The slender figures that you see about you are largely due to Marmola. The new youth and beauty, new health and vigor that you envy. You do yourself a grave injustice if you omit this help.

The way is to correct this gland de-ficiency. No abnormal exercise or diet. Simply take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. Watch the fat go, watch the new vitality return. You will be delighted. Do this now to live life at the full. You should not delay a day.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

OFFER SHORTHAND IN EVENING SCHOOL

All Phases of Secretarial Work to Be Studied in Courses

A 10 weeks course in intensive review in Gregg shorthand will be offered in evening classes of the Appleton vocational school soon, ac-cording to Herb Heilig, director. The course will be designed for those people who have studied the Gregg system, but who, in office use have forgotten some of the principles, or have limited their vocabularies by taking dictation in just one line of business.

It will include the review of the principles of 20 lessons, special drill on word signs and phrases and work-ing up speed in dictation. Enroll-ments are now being taken at the vocational school.

A class in secretarial training open to stenographers, secretaries and people who have studied shorthand, also will be organized soon in the evening classes. Students who have studied the Pitman, Gregg, Graham, or other shorthand systems, are eligible to enroll.

Discussion groups on phrases of secretarial work, including, dictation, transcription, word study, English, grammar, punctuation, spelling, com-position of the different kinds of business letters will be held. Indi-vidual problems as presented by members of the class also will be discussed.

Greece is planning to spend $50,000,000 for the reclamation of large tracts of land in Tessaly, in Epirus and other parts of the country.

How To Play Bridge

BY Milton C. Work

AUCTION BRIDGE AND CONTRACT BRIDGE

"This article is intended for the Bridge novice."

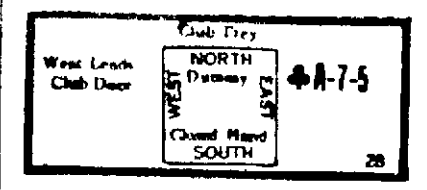

A most important point in the play of the Declarer's adversaries in either Auction or Contract Bridge is that it seldom is advisable to switch after opening a suit. After a suit has been opened the first trick won by the opener's side it should be continued unless a shift is unmistak-ably suggested by the appearance of the Dummy or the fall of the cards on the first trick.

When a shift is made and a new suit opened, the high-card strength of which is divided between the two sides, opening it will probably cost the opening side trick. To shift to any suit which is not headed by Ace-King or a three-card sequence, is particularly dangerous; besides which, the chances are that the most advantageous suit was opened in the first place. The opening lead was made with some object; so when the leader's partner wins the first trick, he generally should return the suit.

For the adversaries of the Declar-er, shifting suits is like swapping horses when crossing a stream. The advice not to shift applies with equal force whether the contract is No Trump or a suit; but it does not apply when the partner evidently desires that a suit he has declared be lead through strength up to him. Neither does it apply when the lead-er against a No Trump has shown exactly four in the suit and the lead-er's partner and Dummy originally held a total of not more than four between them.

To illustrate:

After winning the first Club trick with the Ace, East would find it tempting to return the higher (the Seven) of his two remaining cards of his partner's suit, up to a void suit. Deuce showed that he had only four Clubs originally, and so East knows that the Closed Hand had five of the Club suit, instead of being the one that West is anxious to estab-lish, is really the one that Declarer would like to see continued.

GORDON TO ADDRESS SAFETY CONFERENCE

Isidiah Gordon of the bureau of safety at Chicago will be the prin-cipal speaker at the first session of the Appleton Safety conference to be held at Conway hotel Tuesday evening instead of L. A. Crittendon, who was expected to the south on a business mission, according to Herb Heilig, director of the vocational school.

Mr. Gordon will talk on Your Job and Mine. The theme of his talk will be about the reducing of accident waste in America. F. N. Belanger, acting district manager of the Wis-consin Telephone exchange, will pre-side at the meeting. It is expected the enrollment this year will far ex-ceed that of last year, even though Neenah and Menasha are not now included. The two cities are now conducting their own safety confer-ences.

Mrs. George Schuch and daughter, Shirley Mae, route 5, Appleton, are receiving treatment at St. Elizabeth hospital.

Marquette Invades Armory To Meet Lawrence Monday

GOLD WON FROM VIKES, 25 TO 21 THREE WEEKS AGO

Both Squads Reported to Have Improved Since Former Battle

THERE'S a score to even with Marquette basketball team Monday evening when the Gold comes here to meet the Lawrence college Vikings, and that indicates there'll be another high class cage game up in the old armory beginning along about 8 o'clock.

Just three weeks ago the Vikings went down to Milwaukee and were defeated by Marquette on the Gold's home floor in a game that really wasn't as close as the score indicated. Three long tosses from mid floor by Dan Steinberg aided materially in keeping the Vikes in the running. After the fracas the Vikes were told plenty by coach Denney and then their lineup was revamped.

What has happened since the revamping is history but its one type history the folks like to recall. With three victories under their belts the Lawrentines are going gunning for a fourth Monday night and they're not afraid to tell anyone, even Marquette. The downstaters are reported to have improved considerably during the last two or three weeks and it will be interesting to note which of the squads has improved the most.

Lawrence will send the same team against Marquette as started against Carroll in that historic battle Friday evening. Jackala and Biggers will be at Forwards, Schneller at center and Slavic and Pierce at guards. Biggers probably will be a watched man again Monday but the Gold will have to work harder to stop the Lawrence offense than they did the last time they met the Vikes. And too, Jackala can count on many baskets as anyone else if he's given half a chance.

Schneller, with one experience tucked away should have enough confidence to play rings around his opponent. The big fellow didn't go so hot at Milwaukee but neither did anyone else and he may come through Monday. Ken Laird will be ready to relieve him at Denney's call.

Marquette will find a couple fighting guards protecting the basket Monday night if Slavic and Pierce play as they did against Carroll Slavic in particular starred as a running guard and Pierce seemed to take strength in his mates capers and played his best game this year. The Murrays will be plenty of watching, too. O'Donnell, forward, is a sharpshooter from any point on the floor and he'll have to be watched all the time however, the Vikes will also have to watch Joe King. Marquette guard who has been kinging havoc with Marquette opponents all season. He has an uncanny habit of crashing in to shoot about the time he's least expected.

PURDUE STILL TOPS BIG TEN SCORERS

Murphy Leads Individuals but Is Followed by Foster, Wisconsin

Chicago—(P)—Despite their setback by Wisconsin last week, "Stretch" Murphy and his Purdue mates are still far in front in the Big Ten basketball races for individual and team scoring honors.

Averaging almost 40 points a game, Murphy has piled up 236 points in 67 games, more than his closest rival, Wisconsin. Murphy has averaged better than 12 points a game and has scored 90 points. His closest rival is also a Badger, Bud Foster, star guard.

Following Murphy and Foster, the leading scorers are: Strickland, Indiana, 49; Harneson, Purdue and Tennessee, 48; Van Houten, Ohio State, 45; Wilson, Iowa, 42; Ervin, Ohio State, 40; and O'Connell, Northwestern, 36.

Statistics reveal that personal fouls are more numerous. Five hundred and twenty eight have been called during the 25 games played thus far, an average of 21 a game. Purdue has committed the largest number—66 in five games.

The team scoring, field goals, free throws, total points, personal fouls and opponents' totals.

Team	Pts	Fg	Ft	Pf	Opp
Purdue	685	60	236	58	150
Wisconsin	633	53	179	61	136

CHARLEY HYATT LEADS CAGE SCORERS IN EAST

New York—(P)—Charley Hyatt, sharpshooter of the University of Pittsburgh's basketball team, has jumped into the lead for individual scoring honors in the east.

In 31 games Hyatt has tallied 67 field goals and 29 fouls for a grand total of 159 points. Two points in 11 of his games. Hyatt is being followed by John Schaefer, Pennsylvania's captain, Jimmy Collins of St. John's of Brooklyn is third with 145 points and Ed Wincup of Providence fourth with 124.

SID TERRIS TO TRY COMEBACK MONDAY

New York—(P)—Sid Terris, once regarded as the uncrowned lightweight champion of the world, returns his fight to back among the contenders for Sammy Mandell's title when he meets Babe Herman, Pacific Coast slugger, in a ten-round match at the St. Nicholas arena Monday night.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
THE American Kennel Club has just cleared up a terrific scandal. It was charged that the judges in the Atlantic City dog show were fixed. And that a pointer instead of a wire-haired fox terrier was to win the big prize. The Kennel Club investigated. And found out that it wasn't so. Miller Brown, the Missouri end, who said he despised football, loves baseball. He's a pitcher and he's going to turn pro or dear old Connie Mack. Bill Pickens is in good again with the American Automobile Association. He got set on the ground years ago for promoting a race between Jack Johnson and Barney Oldfield. Al Leasman may help coach football at New York U. next fall. Nando Tassi, the fighter, is a Sunday school teacher.

MEANWELL HAS FINE RECORD AT HEAD OF U. OF W. CAGE TEAMS

Little Doctor Has Sent Badgers to Top Seven Times

MADISON—The unexpected display of strength by the Badgers this season is far from surprising when one takes into consideration the figure Wisconsin has cut in Big Ten basketball circles since Coach Walter Meanwell took charge of the sport in 1911-12.

This is the fifteenth year that the shrewd little doctor has guided the destinies of Wisconsin on the hardwood. Three years he was absent when serving his country during the war and coaching for two winters at Missouri. At present the Cardinal quints is fighting to catch the leading Wolves.

Seven championships have been won by Meanwell teams at Wisconsin in those fourteen seasons. Only three times have the Badgers dropped below third place in the Meanwell regime. The Cardinal mentor boasts 7 titles, 1 second place, 3 thirds, 1 fourth and 2 second division berths. Wisconsin, under "Doc" Meanwell, has played 163 conference ball games, and 89 preliminary contests. Her record in the Big Ten shows 121 victories and 47 defeats. The non-conference teams met by the Badgers have been upset 59 times and Michigan, Illinois and Purdue have been more successful. The Wolverines have won 10 times. These defeats do not take into consideration the two championships won by Meanwell in the Missouri Valley circuit, or these 10 games played this season.

Indiana, Northwestern, Iowa and Ohio State are the four that have found it most difficult to fathom the Meanwell style of play. The Wildcats have won by two games from Wisconsin in twenty meetings while the Hoosiers are at the short end of a 15 to 3 count. "Doc" has upset Ohio State 12 times in 16 games, and has 11 wins over the Hawks as against 3 victories gained by Iowa.

Chicago and Minnesota have played more games with the Badgers than any of the teams mentioned above. The Maroons trail 10 games behind, with 7 games won and 17 lost. Wisconsin has played her traditional rival, Minnesota, 24 times since Meanwell inaugurated the short pass game. The Gophers have had the edge in only 6 tilts.

The remaining three institutions, Michigan, Illinois and Purdue have been more successful. The Wolverines, until their recent victory over Wisconsin, had divided an even dozen contests with the Cardinal. The Illini have hung up 10 triumphs while the Badgers have been winning 14. Purdue-Wisconsin statistics through the fourteen seasons of Meanwell's rule show the Boilermakers with 6 victories and Wisconsin with 10.

Complete Plans For Wausau Ice Tournery

Wausau—(P)—Sports for everyone is the note behind the program framed by Oscar Eitzen in charge of sports for the third annual Wausau Winter Frolic to be held here Feb. 6 to 10.

According to Mr. Eitzen's announcement, the sport program will open Thursday afternoon with children's skating events. The contests are open to grade, vocational and high school pupils and are under the direction of Cathy Ewers, the high school coach. That night Izzak Walton's will conduct a venison "feed," and later adult skating contests are on the program. The same evening, the University of Wisconsin is to meet Wausau in a hockey game and curling rinks are to appear at Marathon park.

A second day of children's skating contests is set for Friday afternoon, while in the evening the Badgers will meet the Marquette Friars in a hockey game. Other Friday night events include curling, a skating exhibition by the University of Wisconsin team, broom ball contests and a fancy skating and barrel jumping.

A dog derby and skating events have been set for Saturday afternoon by Mr. Eitzen, as well as skating contests and hockey and broom ball games. The skating feature will be the Go-Koller silver-skate derby over a two mile course. In hockey, Wisconsin is to meet the Houghton school of Mines, and the Bulldogs will oppose the Kiwanis club in a broom ball contest.

Winter frolics will see the parade Saturday night and later adjourn to Rutledge park, where speed skating and a hockey game between Wausau and Marquette will occupy the early evening. The annual North Star on ice is set for later. The coveted gold skate derby, the coveted gold skate derby, will defend his title.

Invade Armory G Monday Night

Coach Frank J. Murray of Marquette will pay another visit to Appleton Monday evening, this time bringing his basketball team along with him to try and take its second game from the Lawrence college Vikings. The pictures above are Benny Moser, Fond du Lac, forward, Coach Murray himself, Capt. Swede Gebert, he of football fame but now a guard on the cage squad, Manager Keenan and Jimmy O'Donnell and Andrews. O'Donnell is a forward and the big scoring threat, Andrews the Gold's big center.

Appleton Skaters Again Win At Green Bay Races

APPLETON skaters again copped a greater share of the honors in the Northwestern Wisconsin skating races held at Green Bay, Sunday afternoon, under auspices of the Green Bay Press Gazette.

Clem Kitzinger again won the men's championship of this section of the state and was followed across the line by Bob Roemer, also of Appleton. Kitzinger has copped the honors so often it's almost a common occasion. He also won the Post-Crescent championship races here a week ago, Bob Roemer finishing in second place.

Bertha Bell, Appleton, fell just as she was reaching the tape in the senior girls championship race and lost the cup which she had won on two previous occasions to Marguerite Legacy of Marinette. Each of the girls had won the cup twice and the winner Sunday was given permanent possession.

Two more Appleton skaters flashed to the front in the races, Miss Ramona Ryan winning first place among the junior girls and Art Roemer almost winning the intermediate boys events. Miss Ryan won her race easily. She was winner in the junior girl races here a week ago. Art Roemer's disqualification came near the end of his race when the judges declared he had fouled another skater in his effort to reach the tape first.

DUGAN, FUCHS FAIL TO SETTLE DIFFERENCES

New York—(P)—President-Manager Emil Fuchs, of the Boston Braves, is still trying to iron out contract differences with Joe Dugan, who the judge hopes, will play third base for him this summer.

Joe and the Judge talked over the situation here Sunday. Joe left the conference in a good humor, but still unsigned. Fuchs offered "Jumping Joe" a salary somewhat below what he received from the New York Yankees, but took care of at least a part of the difference by adding a bonus clause. That's what Dugan is kicking about. He wants a flat salary contract calling for a little more salary and no bonus.

APPLETON HOCKEY TEAM BEATS NEENAH

Win from Former Valley Champs First Time in Three Years

There's joy in Appleton hockey centers Monday for the Appleton independents have at last triumphed over Neenah, a feat that it took three years to accomplish. The Neenah aggregation has been the class of the valley and when league play was in vogue copped the championship annually. Sunday's score was Appleton 2, Neenah 1. The game was played on the First ward rink.

When the battle started Appleton was given little chance to cop because of inability of several men to play. However, when the game got underway they found the going wasn't so tough and when D. Schultz arrived on the scene to lead a few of the boys rest, a victory looked certain.

The first period was even but as the second opened, Appleton, with a vicious offense, scored twice while Neenah rushed to the front in the closing minutes and counted its first and only goal. The final period was a battle royal as both teams tried to increase the score.

D. Schultz, F. Buss and Lionel Kruger starred in the Appleton attack. Bollheim and Wilz on the defense with A. Foster at goal. Ed Helm was at right wing and came in for a share of the honors with his follow up play. For Neenah, Marquette and Kuehl were the stars.

Next Sunday New London will invade the city to meet the Independents. With a new rink in the First ward and continued support of the fans the independents have hopes of a successful season.

IRISH BOXER MATCHED WITH GERMAN FIGHTER

New York—(P)—Con O'Kelly, fast Irish heavy-weight, will be a busy boxer during the next three weeks. He is signed to meet Jimmy Malone in Boston this Friday night, James J. Lomax in Newark on Feb. 6 and Ed Schmelzer the German star, in New York on Feb. 15.

WILL STAGE FEATHER BOUT FOR NEGROES

New York—(P)—Jess McMahon, a promoter for the proposed Negro boxing bout, is planning a bout between K. C. Chateaufort, of Cuba, and Chick Sullivan, of New Bedford, Mass., at Madison Square Garden, Feb. 23. The match, McMahon says will be for the Negro featherweight championship of the world.

BIG TEN CAGERS IN BATTLE WITH KID ELIGIBILITY

Ohio State Takes Fourth Place by Defeating Chicago, 40-30

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO—(P)—Moving up behind the smoke screen of semester examinations, old man eligibility threatens to cast his shadow across the championship hopes of Big Ten basketball teams this week.

So busy were the hoop artists in attempting to repel his attack that only three teams in the conference had games scheduled. They were Chicago and Iowa, which met at Chicago, and Ohio State, which invades the Army in an intercollegiate combat. Both games were programmed for Saturday.

It was the third successive week of comparative dullness in the campaign, which breaks out again Feb. 9, with a three game card. Each team in the race was understood to have at least one star dangerously near the ineligibility line and when the results of the examinations are known, the three foremost contenders, Michigan, Wisconsin and Purdue, may be stripped of much of their power.

Michigan was idle again last week, but bounded into undignified leadership in the championship scramble when Wisconsin upset Purdue, 31 to 26. The Wolverines have won four straight games and have not been defeated, while Purdue and Wisconsin are deadlocked for second place with five victories and one defeat each. It was Michigan that spoiled Wisconsin's record. Therefore, Michigan had both moral and percentage leadership.

Ohio State went into fourth by defeating Chicago, 40 to 30, in an experimental matinee show at Columbus Saturday. While no definite announcement has been made relative to the experiment, it is known the matinee was not overly successful and that Big Ten basketball for the most part will be confined to night time for some time to come, at least.

Northwestern, which dropped out of the championship race with three straight defeats, seems to have found its pace again. The wildcard triumph Saturday night by edging out Notre Dame, 27 to 24, in a non-conference game at Evanston. Frank Marshall, Northwestern guard, played a great game and here the brunt of the victorious attack with five field goals and two free throws.

Iowa handed Creighton college of Omaha its first defeat of the season in another non-conference battle Saturday night. The score was 28 to 26. The Hawkeyes, fifth in the Big Ten race, showed good form, but were a fertile field for free throws. The game was the roughest ever played on the Iowa fieldhouse courts.

M'ARDLE HAS SUCCESS AS GARDEN MATCHMAKER

New York—(P)—During Tom McArde's four-months reign as matchmaker, Madison Square Garden has staged thirteen fight shows with aggregate receipts of $612,763. McArde was named to the match-making post last Oct. 5. The Sharkey-Christner bout last week tops the list with receipts of $73,192. The Huakins-Devoes brawl drew $64,499 and the clash between McLarnin and Glick $63,574.

Manila, P. I.—Billy Gordon, Port Land, Ore., knocked out "Rough" Dumaguila (4).

SATURDAY'S SCORES
Fox River Paper 28, Y. M. C. A. 22.
Kimberly Club 58, Co. D. 12.

TWO extremes in basketball were evident again in the Industrial-Y. M. C. A. league, in the games staged on the association floor, Saturday evening. The Fox River Paper company cagers managed to eke out a close win from the Y. M. C. A. five by a score of 28 to 22, while in the game played at 9 o'clock in the evening, the Kimberly club of Kimberly walked over the soldiers of Company D, and swamped them by a score of 58 to 12.

The tilt between the papermakers and Y's men was a give and take affair, the lead being shifted from team to team throughout the game. Bowers walked off with the honors for the Fox River Paper team with five baskets and three free throws to his credit. The association cagers were able to keep Ray Torrow in a corner throughout the game, but still he managed to sink four ringers.

Schroeder sank three ringers. Haves and Wolf led the association men as far as scoring was concerned. Wolf sank three baskets and two free throws, and Haves dropped the ball through the hoop for two ringers and two free throws.

The Kimberly club cagers walked over the soldiers, and before many minutes had taken their course, the papermakers had piled up a substantial lead, and kept the soldiers marching and dodging all over the floor.

Gossens of the Kimberly club ran wild and sank 10 ringers and six free throws. M. Du Pont dropped the ball through the hoop six times for field goals, and Busch sank four ringers. Bowers starred for the soldiers.

The Company D aggregation was swept off its feet from the beginning of the game. They were unable to hold down the Kimberly forwards who managed to sink ringers, regardless of the distance from the hoop. The soldiers committed 14 personal fouls, while their opponents were charged with eight.

Short Sports

Racine—(P)—Roman Seitz, St. Catherine high school's four sport athlete, has been re-elected captain of the football team. Seitz, besides his football ability, is captain of the basketball team, was a weight man on the 1928 track team, and performed as catcher on the baseball nine last year.

Fond du Lac—(P)—The Fond du Lac Tennis club will conduct a tennis tournament on its six new courts here Labor day, Robert Trier, president, who has received permission from the state body, has announced. It is expected that nearly 60 players will compete.

Ripon—(P)—Ripon college's freshman basketball team will open its season Saturday night when the Crimson force are hosts to the Fond du Lac Y. M. C. A. five. Nearly 25 men are on the squad, the stars of which are: Falconer and Cook, Chicago; Sturm, Shawano; Christ, Madison; and McCarrison, Marshfield.

SPANIARD MATCHED WITH K. O. CHRISTNER

New York—(P)—Paulino Uzcudun, and not Tom Heeney, will be matched against K. O. Christner, the tough Akron rubber worker, at Madison Square garden, Feb. 22 under revised plans of Tom McArde, garden matchmaker.

Christner made such a great showing against Jack Sharkey last week that McArde planned to match him against Heeney. But the New Zealanders had not yet made up his mind whether he is coming back to the ring. McArde now hopes to be able to induce Paulino to accept the bout.

FIELDS AND M'CARTHY TO BATTLE AT CHICAGO

Chicago—(P)—A pair of fighting jacks from Chicago, Jackie Fields and Jack McCarthy, battle for 40 rounds or less at Dexter Pavilion Monday night for added recognition as outstanding contenders for Joe Dundee's somewhat shaky welterweight crown.

Fields, who recently defeated Young Jack Thompson, the man who knocked out Dundee in a non-championship match, was a big favorite.

"Shuffle" Callahan, Chicago's sou'wester middleweight bonecrusher, will meet Jack Kennedy of Detroit in the semi-windup.

Expect Much of Berliner

Pennsylvania athletic officials expect Barney Berliner, who as a freshman made the Olympic squad last year, to be one of their outstanding track performers this year.

Wants to Win 18 Games
Walter Miller, member of the Cleveland pitching staff, says he expects to win at least 18 games this summer for his owners.

KEEPING HOUSE IN WHITE HOUSE REAL JOB, FIGURES SHOW

Monthly Grocery Bill Averages About $2,500—Big Mansion Has 50 Servants

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of three stories by Allen Sumner, NEA Service Writer, on some of the intimate problems that will confront Mrs. Herbert Hoover as the new First Lady of the Land. The second story will describe the interior of Mrs. Hoover's new home and the third will tell of her duties as a hostess.

BY ALLEN SUMNER
Washington—Being the wife of the President of the United States means much more, of course, than that of the nation's First Lady—one is mistress of the most important house in the country, the White House.

Naturally, then, Mrs. Herbert Hoover is interested in knowing just what this White House housekeeping job means—how many servants she will have, how many guest rooms there are, how much linen and silver and china, what to expect in the way of grocery bills who pays for what, and all the questions which any woman taking charge of a new establishment would want answered.

INTRODUCED TO NEW HOME
For years it has been the custom for the outgoing First Lady to invite the incoming First Lady to tea, a very private tea, for the express purpose of introducing the new incoming First Lady to her new establishment.

No publicity has been given such an engagement between Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Coolidge as yet, but it is rather probable that one occurred before the Hoovers' departure to Florida.

There is special drama in this social custom this time. Mrs. Coolidge packing for her moving day to a big frame house in Northampton, Mass., which might, in a pinch sell for $10,000 or rent for $50 a month, is turning over the White House of which she has been mistress for more than five years. And the value of its building and grounds has been estimated as high as $25,000,000.

WHO PAYS THE BILLS?
Just what does it mean to become mistress of the White House? What are the housekeeping problems? Who pays which bills? Where does the family laundry go? Who washes Brussels lace buffet scarf which can't be put in with the general wash? If the president insists on strawberries out of season for breakfast, can he have them? Who pays for them?

Mrs. Hoover probably knows that the grocery bill must be paid out of the Hoover pocketbook. She may be interested in learning, however, that an official dinner may cost as much as $1000. It may answer that question which all Washington asks at the time of Queen Marie's visit: "Why did the White House serve roast beef?"

The outgoing First Lady probably gave the incoming First Lady some such facts as these about her new home.

She will take care of over 50 servants. There are with the direction of the housekeeper, a former worker in the personnel department of the Stearns store in Boston, and hired on the personal assurance of Coolidge's friend Stearns himself, that she would not quit and write her memoirs as White House housekeeper as her predecessor, Mrs. Elizabeth Jaffray, did.

It's an open secret that the president didn't like Mrs. Jaffray's published story about his counting the number of hams ordered for a certain luncheon.

LIST OF SERVANTS
Mrs. Coolidge doubtless told Mrs. Hoover that her household includes the housekeeper, three cooks, one kitchen helper, three laundresses, two housemaids, one head mechanic, one electrician, a day and a night furnace man, four footmen, a parlor maid, a head butler, a second butler, a pantry man, one lady's maid, several chambermaids, one houseman, one house cleaner, one special valet, one servants' floor maid, two head ushers, two gardeners and four chauffeurs and a few potato peelers and window-wipers.

The greenhouses mean about $10,000 a year. The garden bill for planting, cutting the 10-acre lawn, tending to bulbs, etc. is another $10,000. The light bill runs between $8,500 and $9,000.

It costs about $85,000 a year to guard the president and his establishment.

LAUNDRY COST IS SPLIT
Mrs. Hoover may be even more interested in these facts:

That, while Uncle Sam agrees to do the general White House laundry, personal laundry is up to the president and his family who are supposed to device some scheme for keeping tab on their personal wash that goes in with the general tablecloths and towels.

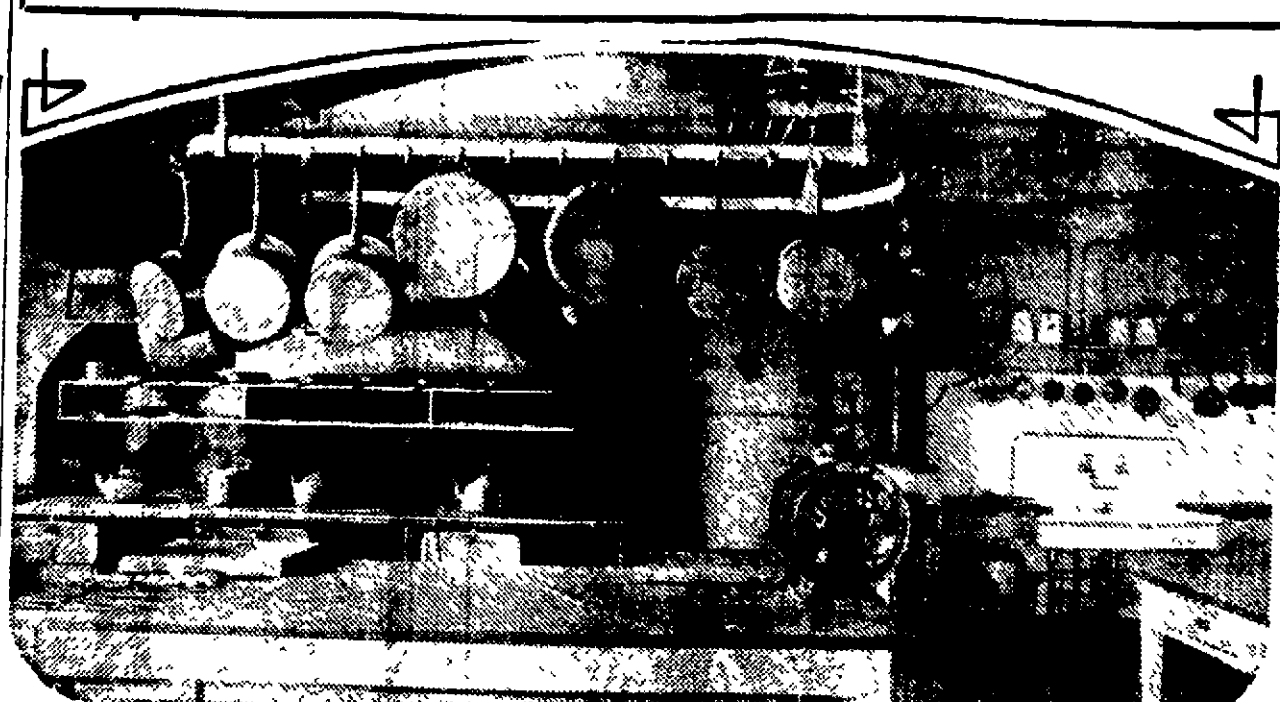

That, while Uncle Sam pays the servants he does not expect to pay them for personal entertaining, and it is assumed that when friends or relatives come to stay a few weeks, the servant cost will be prorated some way.

That the president and his wife are supposed to pay for the care of their "personal property" as distinguished from government property.

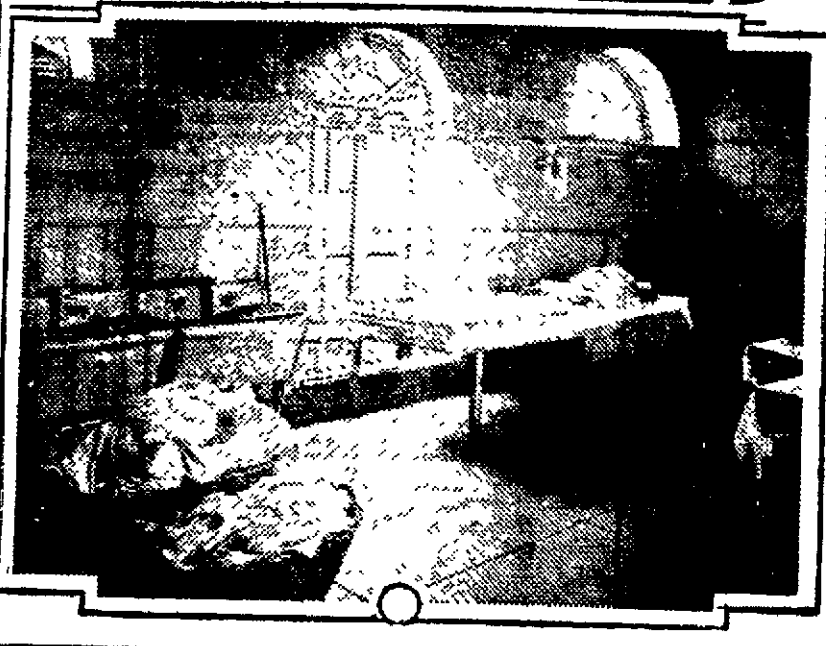

That the president is supposed to pay for his own private cook, his own stable, his own valet, and for his wife's maid.

GROCERY
The new First Lady probably will find that very economical manage-

Behind the Scenes at the White House

The White House kitchen, pictured above, requires an average of about $2500 a month in groceries, as one state dinner for 100 guests may cost $1000. Grocery bills must be paid by the Hoovers personally, because the government does not bear this expense. At the right is a corner of the laundry in the White House basement. The government pays for laundering White House table linen, bed linen, etc., but the President must bear the expense of laundering the family's wearing apparel.

ment can keep the White House grocery bill, which the Hoovers will have to pay, to about $2,500 a month. But that will take care.

She will have enough dishes to serve 100 people at formal dinners. Her new home is officially a 25-room mansion—but if you begin counting closets and halls and ante-rooms, it's more like 50.

It has electric kitchen equipment—bread butter, mixer, electric dish washer, stoves, a complete laundry. A new electric elevator and seven new bathrooms and showers were installed while the Coolidges were in Wisconsin last year.

There is also an electric refrigerator system and the ice cream freezer and the bread mixer.

In all probability Mrs. Hoover won't find it an easy job. Just try running a $25,000,000 house with more than 50 servants.

STAGE And SCREEN

TREMENDOUS IS "THE KING OF KINGS"

To be transported back to Galilee and the streets of Judaea at a time when a Man gave to the world a great opportunity to follow the path of that Man through an amazing series of engrossing epochal events—such as the central work of Cecil B. DeMille's motion picture, "The King of Kings," which reverently pictures the wondrous drama of Jesus teacher and healer, the Crucifixion and Resurrection.

This master picture opened a five days engagement at the Brin Theatre, Menasha.

We first see Jesus through the eyes of a blind girl whose sight He restored; share the love and enthusiasm of the boy John Mark who was enabled to throw away his crutches; and watch the Seven Deadly Sins being driven out of the proud Mary of Magdala.

PHARISEES AND SCRIBES FEARFUL
Watching all this were Pharisees and Scribes who sensed in His new authority menace to their purses and power. In Judaea through a grove of olive trees we follow Him in an exquisite interlude with children. Summoned by Martha and Mary to Bethany, He goes thither and raises their dead brother Lazarus from the tomb. He drives the money changers from the courts of the Temple at Jerusalem, after saving the life of a poor sinful creature whom the Temple legalists would have cruelly stoned to death.

Next we see in the Temple the multitudes hailing Jesus as King of Kings; Judas, the false Disciple, consents to betray his Lord for thirty pieces of silver, and sits a traitor at the Last Supper, which is herein portrayed with an art worthy of Leonardo da Vinci.

Taken at night in Gethsemane, Jesus is hurried before the High Priest and the Sanhedrin, and thence before the judgment seat of Pilate. Some of the grandest work of the picture appears in this great Trial Scene. H. B. Warner as the persecuted Christ, Victor Varconi as Pontius Pilate, and George Siegmann as Barabbas reach great heights of dramatic power.

THE TRAGEDY ON GOLGATHA
Outriggering all the previous scenes, the tragedy on Golgotha and the violent earthquake and storm accompanying the crucifixion rise to the greatest climax ever witnessed.

SECOND AND WORSE FLU WAVE FEARED
Colds Attacking Weakened System Fave Way for New and More Severe Diseases

Health authorities fear that the present decline in the number of new flu cases may be only a prelude to a second and worse wave.

They point out the importance of keeping free from colds, especially in the system has already been weakened by the flu, as colds at this time are so apt to bring on bronchitis, or even pneumonia.

Every cold must be checked immediately. And yet too much "dosage" may upset the digestion which is already disturbed by the toxins of influenza.

Vicks VapoRub is especially valuable here. As it is applied externally, it can be used freely at the first sign of a cold without upsetting the most delicate digestion.

Just rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime.

recognition a pupil must earn 75 or more points, the highest number available being 85. Those included on the list are Zae Northrup, Florence Otto, Rosalyn Rachow, Vivian Kasten and Pearl Mears.

Dance at Shehan's Hall, Little Chute Tues. Nite. Harvey Neuman and His New Band.

Unlike the conventional depictions, Cecil B. DeMille has succeeded in tremendously humanizing the characters. Ernest Torrence is a remarkable St. Peter, Jacqueline Logan a living Magdalene, Rudolph Schildkraut a crafty and cruel high priest, and Joseph Schildkraut a scheming Judas who regards both men and women but as pawns in his ambitious schemes of State. There are eighteen featured actors and more than 500 well-known players, besides 3,000 extra players in the cast. The settings exceed in elaborateness and beauty any picture ever shown here.

THREE MORE GAME REFUGES LOCATED IN STATE BORDERS

New Reserves Are Established in Sheboygan, Washington, Oconto-cos

MADISON—(P)—The state has three more game refuges where game may rest unmolested, under protection of game wardens, the state conservation commission announced Thursday.

The three new game refuges are in Sheboygan, Washington and Oconto-cos.

The Washington county 157-acre refuge is owned by the Y. M. C. A. of Milwaukee and called Camp Minkami. The "Y" applied for the establishment of the rest.

Oconto county's wild life farm consists of 580 acres to be known as the Morgan Wild Life Refuge. Owners of the lands applied.

The "Forest Preserve District Game Refuge," of 213.62 acres in Sheboygan county is being established in line with petitions from citizens of the county. Following publication of official notices in three Sheboygan county papers, the refuge will become a place where no hunting will be permitted, on March 1.

The three will continue as wild life farms until 1934.

Alma Rubens Fights To Escape From Sanitarium

Hollywood, Calif.—(P)—Alma Rubens, screen actress, was receiving treatment in a sanitarium near Alhambra, Calif., Saturday after having attempted to escape a physician and his assistant by dashing through the crowd, along Hollywood boulevard and later stabbing the assistant with a paper knife.

Miss Rubens, the wife of Ricardo Cortez, motion picture star, was reported to be in a serious condition and suffering from a complete nervous breakdown.

In a report to the police Friday Dr. J. W. Meyer, the physician, said he and the assistant, H. Barnett, had called at Miss Rubens' home to take her to the sanitarium and that as the three of them were getting into his automobile, the actress turned and bolted down the main business thoroughfare of Hollywood.

"Barnett and I gave chase," the physician said, "and called for Miss Rubens to stop, but she ran faster, started screaming that she was being kidnapped and tore off her hat and gloves and threw her purse away."

While noon-day crowds stopped to watch, the two men overtook Miss Rubens.

As the two men approached, police reports stated, Miss Rubens brandished the paper knife and struck Barnett twice. He was not wounded seriously. The knife was taken away from the actress and she was placed in the physician's automobile and started for the sanitarium. Efforts to quiet her, however, were futile, the doctor said, and he stopped his car and called for an ambulance. Here Miss Rubens was said to have started a second fight with her captors in an effort to escape. Another call was made for Hollywood police, but by the time they arrived the actress had been placed in the ambulance enroute to the sanitarium. Cortez was said to have visited his wife at the sanitarium Friday night in an effort to quiet her.

"The Firefighters"

Firemen must be strong as they have considerable climbing and jumping to perform. After the recruit is taught how to handle, raise and balance the ladder, he must learn how to make a "chain of ladders." Standing on top of one ladder he must be able to hook another ladder over the ledge of a window far above him.

The dangers to which firemen are exposed claim as many lives proportionately as there are soldiers killed in battle.

The firemen rush up the stairs in a burning building and tear down a locked door. Oxygen strikes the smoldering flame inside and it explodes.

The falling wall is another common danger. Sometimes a brick wall will crumble in the middle and buckle, dropping like a curtain. But quite often the whole wall will fall straight out and remain almost solid until it strikes the ground, crippling or killing whole companies.

55 ARRESTS IN PAST YEAR AT CLINTONVILLE

$775 Paid to City for Violation of Ordinances—30 State Cases

Clintonville—The records of Chief of Police J. J. Monty reveal that only 55 arrests were made during the year of 1928. Thirty of these were state cases and 25 were charges in violation of the city's ordinances and resulted in the collection of $775.05 in fines all paid into the city treasury. No records were available of the amount of money collected in fines on the 30 state cases which funds were turned over to the state.

Among the arrests the following charges and convictions were listed: 1. Assault; 2. battery; 3. selling illicit liquor; 4. abandonment; 5. gambling; 6. drunkenness; 7. reckless driving; 8. driving a car without a license; 9. drunken drivers; 10. petty larceny; 11. arrests turned over to other authorities; 12. The local police department also received a reward of $25 from the Waupun State prison for the apprehension of a man who had broken parole. Fees collected by the police department together with the $25 reward were placed in the pension fund.

The Rev. W. C. Kurtz, pastor of the Methodist church of this city, gave a very interesting talk to the Lions at their regular luncheon at Hotel Marson Wednesday noon. Visitors at the club were Walter Hemker, division rural engineer of the Wisconsin Power and Light Company and Frank Cottrell, division commercial manager of the Wisconsin Power and Light company, both of Fond du Lac.

At a recent meeting of the stockholders of the Mercantile company the directors were re-elected. They include: L. A. Burgess, Fred Schley, Sr., John D. Peterson, G. J. Huhn and Rudolph Schmiedke. Earl Schmidt was retained as manager of the elevator and Gust Jesse as manager of the store. City Clerk Julius Spearbraker and G. J. Huhn and William Schultz gave short talks during the afternoon.

A meeting was held at the city hall in this city Thursday evening at which the possibility of establishing a school of instruction for airplane pilots were seriously discussed. There were some thirty young men from this city, Marion and Embarrass present.

Three representatives of the Wisconsin Civic Air service of Appleton were present to address the gathering, including Mr. Haugen, president of the organization, William Noel and Miss Lydia Kasper.

The Appleton company proposes to organize a school of instruction here if sufficient people are interested to make the venture possible. At the meeting three applicants signed up for the course of instruction and several more indicated their intentions of doing so in the near future. Mayor A. C. Cather spoke at the opening of the meeting.

The usual union service was held at the Bethany church on Sunday evening. The Rev. W. C. Kurtz, pastor of the Methodist church, had charge of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Spearbraker entertained a number of friends at Hotel Marson on Thursday evening. A 7 o'clock dinner was served followed by an evening of bridge. Fourteen tables were in play. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Dr. J. H. Murphy, Mrs. George Spiegel, Mr. C. W. Zimmermann and Mrs. Charles Folkman.

CAMPFIRE MEETING
The Campfire Girls met at the home of their guardian, Miss Margaret Quill, Eighth-street on Wednesday evening. Miss Gretchen Kohl, is assistant guardian. A social time was held and a lunch served by the hostess. The following are members: Lucile Gensler, Edna Mae Jones, Florence Nelson, Gladys Spearbraker, Marguerite Hintz, Beulah Conley, Dorothea Meggers, Mildred Olsen, Helen Kieckhefer, LaVone Sheldon, Jean Ann Eberhardt, Faith Laabs, Evelyn Heuer, June Kohl, Norma Holmes, Inez Milbauer and Lorraine Winters. The following are the officers of the organization: President, Beulah Conley; vice president, Mildred Olsen; secretary-treasurer, Marguerite Hintz. The girls have chosen Otyekwa as the name of their organization.

Mrs. R. F. Braun, Wausau, is visiting at the home of Mrs. O. H. Haugen in this city.

Gust Knutson, Iola, was a Wednesday visitor at the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. W. Parfitt and family.

L. Le Claire is transacting business for a number of months in various points of Illinois.

Mrs. R. H. Schmidt, F. A. Moldenhauer of this city and T. H. Buntrock of Embarrass, left Wednesday for Watertown to attend the funeral of Mrs. Louis Dorfmeier.

Mrs. Carl Folkman is confined to St. Mary hospital, Milwaukee, following an operation last Monday for appendicitis.

LIBRARY STUDENT IS ASSIGNED TO 2 POSTS

New London—Miss Marjorie Stanley, Clintonville, library student at the University of Wisconsin, has been assigned for active practice during the months of February and March to the Milwaukee State Teachers' college library and to the Oshkosh public library. She will serve one month at each place. She was one of 41 students to be assigned to various Wisconsin libraries. Miss Stanley formerly was a library here but resigned some what more than a year ago to continue her studies in the library school at Madison.

FLU PRACTICALLY GONE IN CITY, NURSE REPORTS

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The influenza epidemic has practically subsided in this city, according to Miss Loretta Rice, city nurse. Heavy snow storms and extremely cold weather apparently helped to kill the germs in the air. There are no quarantined homes in New London at present, and attendance at public and parochial schools is about normal.

FACULTY WHIPPED BY HIGH CAGERS

Red and White Runs Away from Pick-up Teachers Team by 38-6 Score

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—New London high school cagers met and conquered a pick-up faculty team here late last week. The game was substituted for the De Pere contest, which could not be played because of poor road conditions.

The final score was 38 to 6. The faculty team consisted of Koten, Polomis, Bergland, Mehhouse and Comery, while the high school squad was represented by its regular team, with exception of Dayton, who acted as referee.

There were no casualties, with exception of Koten, who resigned in favor of Engen in the last quarter. Polomis scored a field goal, while Koten accounted for the other faculty points via the free throw routes.

PHILOMENA ROBERTS DIES AT HOME OF SON

Special to Post-Crescent
Bear Creek—Mrs. Philomena Roberts, 70, died Sunday morning at the home of her son Joseph in the town of Deer Creek, after an illness of about two months. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Brocco, and was born Dec. 12, 1858, at Fond du Lac. When she was 11 years old she moved with her parents to a Maple Creek farm. On Jan. 7, 1878, she was married to David Roberts at New London. For some time they resided at Maple Creek, later moving to the farm where she lived until death.

The following children survive: Solomon, Abraham, Clement, Oliver and Joseph, all of the town of Deer Creek; George of Shiocton, John of Appleton, Emory Roberts and Mrs. Jessie Bessette, both of the town of Maple Creek, Brothers and sisters are Mrs. Mary Jane Monty of Bear Creek, Solomon Brocco of New London, Mrs. Agnes Bakhaizer of the town of Maple Creek, Mrs. Sarah Baithazer and Mrs. Emma Roberts of the town of Deer Creek, Alex and George Brocco and Mrs. Jessie Baithazer, all of Wittenberg. There are also many grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning by the Rev. M. Alt. Burial will be made in the parish cemetery.

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—"The Follies of 1929," a home talent musical production, will be presented at the Grand Opera house on Monday evening, Feb. 11, by the New London Community Hospital Auxiliary.

About 40 members of the cast and chorus will be selected at a meeting to be held Monday evening at the city hall. The first rehearsal will be held after the meeting. Proceeds will be donated to the hospital by the auxiliary.

Members of the auxiliary also will hold their regular business meeting Monday evening at the city hall.

EXTINGUISH BLAZE AT HEIMANN HOME

Fire Department Unable to Respond to Call Because of Blocked Road

Chilton—A crack in the chimney caused a fire in the home of Joseph Heimann at 130 on Friday afternoon. The fire department was not able to take the fire engine to the Heimann home on account of the deep snow, but the family, by chopping holes in the walls and pouring in water, were able to extinguish the fire before much damage had been done. The damage is estimated at about $150, fully covered by insurance.

Lloyd Pilling, a dental at Marquette university, is visiting his parents over the weekend. Randolph Binsfeld and William Schumacher, also Marquette students, are spending the mid-semester vacation at their respective homes.

The basketball game which was scheduled to be played at New Holstein on Friday evening between the high school team of this city and the New Holstein high school team was postponed, as the Chilton team was unable to get to New Holstein due to the snow. There were no trains through this city on Friday, the northbound train due in this city at 10 o'clock in the morning being snow-bound at Elkhart Lake, and the southbound, due here at 2:30 in the afternoon being snowed in at Hillbert.

On Saturday the trains were running on schedule time.

Mrs. Arns Schocher and son visited the former's sister, Mrs. Wyatt Green in Kiel, on Thursday.

Joseph Woelfel, manager of the Kretsch Bros.' store, was in Kiel on Thursday to attend the annual business meeting of the Kretsch Bros.

New power line poles are being put up this week on E. Main-st. between the eastern city limits and the office of the Wisconsin Public Service corporation. The new poles are five feet higher than the old ones were, and the heavy voltage wires will be much more effectively insulated than were the old wires. It is believed that this improvement will materially lessen the interference with radios in homes on this street.

CHURCH ELECTS NEW OFFICERS FOR 1929

Clintonville Hotel Company to Have Annual Meet Tuesday Night

Clintonville—At a recent meeting of the members of the St. Martin's Lutheran church the following officers were elected: elders, Albert Klemp, George Marquardt; trustee, Nick Schmidt; school board, Frank Gruenke; chairman, Alvin Krueger; secretary, Fred Kubitz, financial secretary, Arthur Metzendorf, treasurer, Otto Eberhardt; finance committee, George Marquardt, Otto Reitzke; cemetery committee, William Ebert.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Clintonville Hotel company will be held on Tuesday evening at the city hall. The meeting was first called for Tuesday afternoon but was adjourned until Tuesday evening. After the meeting the stockholders will be entertained at the Hotel Marson.

At a recent meeting of the Christ Lutheran church the following officers were elected: elder, Fred Gensler; school trustee, Charles Rindt; church trustee, Louis Pasch; envelope committee, Carl Smith.

Because of weather conditions, the basketball game scheduled between Burnamwood and the Clintonville high school at Burnamwood Friday evening, was postponed until a latter date.

Arnold Meck spent the week-end with friends at New London.

H. W. Zimmermann, Milwaukee, returned to his home on Saturday after transacting business for a number of days in this city. Mr. Zimmermann remained in this city for a few days with relatives.

Among those from this city who will attend the road school at Madison this week are: C. W. Zimmermann, A. C. Nickel, W. C. Schumacher, Joseph Stein, John Gray, Walter Jones and Archie Hewitt.

John and Kanasky of this city have opened a sales stable at Bowler. Adam Kanasky is in charge of the barns. Most of the horses being bought are to be used in the woods on that vicinity where they are considerable lumbering operations this winter.

"DACHSHUND" BULL
Richmond, Mo.—A bull owned by Sherman McNew, weighing 750 pounds and perfectly normal in every respect, has been reported to have killed a man about 32 inches high and neighbors have dubbed it the "Dachshund" bull.

LIFE'S ODDITIES

By George Clark

"Of course we only have a small apartment."

Men Also Appreciate High Cost Of Clothes

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington, D. C.—The high cost of being well dressed is not entirely confined to the female population of the world—Uncle Sam's pieces in particular.

Figures made public by the Department of Commerce show that over two hundred and forty-one million dollars was spent for men's shirts in 1927 and over thirteen million dollars for men's collars. Even the workman takes pride in his ready-to-wear shirt for $22.351.234 was spent on men's work shirts during that year.

The collar-attached style of men's shirts were the most popular sellers during the year—6,710,267 dozens were manufactured and priced at $92,161.439. Next in demand was the neckband style, 5,711,115 dozens were manufactured and sold for $58,693,653. 797,393 dozen of men's flannel shirts were manufactured and were valued at $12,605,512.

While the plea that "mother used to make" were without dispute far superior to the factory product, the "home-made" shirt for the younger boys seem to be disappearing. It cost American mothers and fathers $17,569,721 to outfit the boys of the family with blouses in 1927.

Nine hundred and seven establishments engaged primarily in the manufacture of shirts in 1927 reported to the Department. Materials and supplies purchased and used in the manufacture of shirts during the year cost the manufacturers $18,763,667. Wage earners employed averaged 57,216 for the year, and their wages amounted to $42,397,527.

In the 24 collar factories operated during 1927, 3,276 workers were employed, their wages amounting to $2,366,935.

Misses Beulah Locke and Madge Henry entertained a number of their friends at the Locke home Friday evening. Dancing furnished entertainment. Guests were: Misses Kathryn Thorpe, Evelyn McCully, June Pooler, Arla Valentine, Leona Budd, Marjory Genske, Lillian Colson, Gwendolyn Wehrman, Mary Thompson, Betty Locke, Phil and Herbert Palmer, Nyles Manley, Tim Main, Gordon Durkee, Lawrence Gilkey, Charles Middleton, Walter Sawyer, Russel Omholt, Charles De Long.

Miss Emma Schwaend, a senior of the local high school, returned to her home here Wednesday from St. Elizabeth hospital where she had submitted to an operation.

Miss Ruth Johnson, who is employed at the Shiocton bank as a cashier, returned to her home here Saturday from Chicago where she spent the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Penn were called to Green Bay last week by the death of the latter's father.

Mr. and Mrs. George Skene returned to their home here Saturday morning from Chicago where they spent the past week.

Mrs. Vera Mealing spent the week-end at New London with relatives.

Miss Helen Donaldson left Saturday morning for Detroit, Mich., where she will enter a hospital to train as a nurse.

Mrs. Alice Sommerfeld, primary teacher of the Shiocton graded school, spent the week-end at her home at New London.

THREE STATES JOIN IN FIRE PREVENTION WORK
Madison—(AP)—Plans for coordinating the fire-prevention work of three lake states were made by forestry officials of Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin here Saturday.

Those attending the conference were: H. J. Andrews, chief forester of Michigan; G. N. Connel, commissioner of forestry and fire prevention of Minnesota; and H. E. Pimley, C. A. Hoot, federal district forest inspector, Duluth, and C. L. Harrington, superintendent of forests and parks for Wisconsin.

SAVES LIFE—LOSES HAT
Middleton, N. Y.—James Adams was motoring through the Adirondacks here. Suddenly, after rounding a curve, he saw a dog followed by a woman, dash onto the highway. The car was going too fast to stop and Adams ran over the dog. The woman, however, jumped to the time to save her life, but dropped her hat which was also crushed under the wheels.

ARGENTINA, ONCE SCOFFER, NOW IS WILD OVER SPORTS

Whole Country Boasts of Better Physical Condition Because of Play

BY ROONEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright, 1929, NEA Service, Inc.)
Washington—Argentina might almost be called sport crazy.

Once the Argentines just laughed at foreign sports. Now the whole country boasts of the improved health with which they are endeavoring the younger generation.

The British introduced cricket and soccer here at a time when the only Argentine recreation was sitting on rooftops and drinking. The country never has picked up cricket, but it has gone mad over soccer.

There's a terrific soccer rivalry between the Argentines and Uruguayians, the two nations get almost unbelievably hot up over the outcome, and meanwhile this important national game is played the length and breadth of the land. Every factory has a team and every hamlet. Every three or four tiny communities have a league. Each province has its own team.

The players, who have something of a complex, pay meticulous attention to their uniforms. Some times 35,000 spectators see a game in the River Plate stadium and the kids all talk about soccer even more than our kids talk about big league baseball at home.

Alvar the last president, is said often to have kicked out the ball at important games, though President Irigoyen has not yet condescended to do so. Tumults are mobbed on occasion and pot bottles or beer bottles—hurled. Dirty playing is not unknown, for the losing side frequently becomes so excited as to kick, scratch and bite. In order to win. At least, so one is told.

Tennis is the next most popular sport in Buenos Aires is covered with tennis courts, a form of squash tennis, as well as tennis. That's a Basque game and there are many polo leagues. Swimming is popular so is fencing, with the upper classes, and basketball has lately been gaining favor.

The rise of Senor Luis Angel Firpo, the "wild bull of the pampas," encouraged amateur boxing, especially in Buenos Aires. Firpo, by the way, is highly successful as an automobile salesman. He had a contract providing that he sell 50 Stutz cars last year, and he is said to have doubled the figure. He may be no great salesman, but the car and the market are good.

Competitors claim unfair competition from Firpo in that he makes extravagant allowances on the purchaser's old car when turned in, but one hears that Luis Angel cleans up about 2500 pesos on every sale.

Luis Angel often smiles now, dresses quite decently, and shaves his face and washes his neck. Later he has claimed to be training for another crack at the heavyweight championship in the United States, but the cynics suggest that he has more in mind the gate receipts during his training appearances.

The English colony, a very large one here, crickets regularly. American tennis and golf. Being comparatively few in number they don't go in much for group games, and the only championship your correspondent heard claimed for the American colony here was the whisky-drinking championship, which may or may not have been mere bragging.

Naturally, sporting goods stores here have been getting rich with the ever-increasing demand for implements and equipment for play.

Buenos Aires also boasts one of the world's best race courses and some of the best available horse flesh, though racing is confined to Sunday afternoons and holidays. Sixty thousand persons show up for a good race, including half as many peons in pajama coats. More than 500,000 pesos have been bet, pari-mutuel, on a big race. One hears that many of the races are "fixed."

but your correspondent has had no experience with them.

President Irigoyen is against horse race betting. Once Buenos Aires had regular Thursday afternoon races, too, but Irigoyen stopped those.

POP GOES THE GAVEL
Cleveland—Baillif Gus Hanna is still looking for the person or persons who succeeded in blasting the order of the court provided over by Judge P. Baer. Gus likes his court money. But the other day when his gavel came down at the end of the "Hear ye! Hear ye!" there ensued an explosion which all but routed Gus' dignity. Someone had placed a toy pistol cap where it would do the most good under the baillif's lustrous gavel swing.

Doctor Found Women and Children Sick More Often than Men

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough examination. They were constituted, in the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice, he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with psyllin.

In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and placed it on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a public success as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us it helped when everything else failed.

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, its mild, gentle action is promptly effective on the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the unweaned baby. Children like it and take it willingly. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

FEWER ACCIDENTS IN STATES WITH DRIVERS LICENSES

Supervision of Drivers Re- sults in Furthering Safety on Roads

Chicago — Deaths from motor vehicle accidents have gone down by about 20 percent in those states having drivers' license laws that provide for the examination of new drivers and that administer these provisions properly.

That this reduction in automotive fatalities is due entirely to these laws and their proper administration is the conviction of Sidney J. Williams, director of the public safety division of the National Safety Council. Williams' department has just completed an elaborate study of the fatalities in the states having such laws.

These states include Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, California, Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and Rhode Island. A few additional states have drivers' license laws, but do not require examination of new drivers and in most cases are administered by a strong centralized state bureau. These states, Williams finds, have not enjoyed a reduction of accidents that could be ascribed to such laws.

LAW START DOWN TREND

In those states with properly administered license laws calling for drivers' examinations, Williams found a definite downward trend in the rate of automotive fatalities since the adoption of these laws. In only two of these, Maine and Vermont, has the rate been slightly upward, and in one, New Hampshire, has it been practically at a standstill.

This Williams explains by the fact that these are vacation states and that the heavy summer tourist travel there brought about the increase in auto fatalities. The same reason may be advanced for the failure of the rate to go down in New Hampshire.

According to Williams, the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads found that 21 per cent of the vehicles on Maine highways in 1924 were of "foreign" or out of state registration, and 35 per cent in Vermont in 1926. The ratio of summer accident frequency in Maine to winter accident frequency is four and a half times as great as in other states, and in Vermont it is nearly eight times as great.

ATLANTIC COAST SAFEST

Since all but one of the states included in this survey are found along the North Atlantic coast, an interesting comparison has been made between the automotive fatalities here and those in the remainder of the country, the middle western

Girls In Kindergarten Learn To Wash Clothes

The days when little Peggy invited a sharp reprimand or a slap on her tiny wrists for trying to "help" mother with the wash—industrially splashing suds from the north to the south wall and from the ceiling to the floor—are no more, for Peggy's kindergarten education has transformed her into a qualified wash-day assistant. And though she washes only doll clothes, there's nothing amateurish about her work—she knows how to sud the water, how many rinsings are necessary, and the proper way to wring and hang little dresses, petticoats and stockings.

If mother has any doubts about her daughter's training and experience in the art of washing she can quash them by visiting the kindergarten room at McKinley school. Under the tutelage of Miss Kathryn Fritschler and Miss Helen Trever, the kiddies have been taught the A. B. C.'s of washing and ironing, and not by the theory method either. On wash day at the kindergarten the dolls were stripped of their blue, white and pink garments and sent to bed while their wardrobe succumbed to a thorough laundering. First the clothes were sorted, washed in suds, rinsed in two waters, wrung out, and then hung up to dry on clothes lines improvised by the children and with pins pulled from the basket in the laundry at home.

Then the garments were sprinkled and piled in neat rows in the miniature clothes basket, and the next day with the assistance of a tiny and the southern states especially. The figures are from 1920 to 1926 and show that while fatalities in these years increased 64 per cent in the North Atlantic states against an increase registration of 158 per cent deaths in the middle west increased 100 per cent against a registration of only 126 per cent, and deaths in the south went up 230 per cent with an increase of 194 per cent in registrations.

"The results of this study," concludes Williams, "may be accepted as conclusive evidence of the value of a license law with examination, properly administered, and of the need for enacting and administering such a law in every state of the union."

"The states, not now having license laws suffered a total of 17,000 motor vehicle fatalities in 1927. It may be confidently expected that if each of these states would enact a license law including examination of new drivers, with the proper machinery for enforcing it, there would be within a few years a saving of over 3000 lives per year."

electric iron—a Christmas gift to little Harriet Moritz from her grandfather—the clothes were ironed on an equally small ironing board.

And now that the doll dresses are all so beautifully laundered they can hardly be left hanging around the kindergarten room to get soiled and wrinkled, so Eugene Jacobs and James Stumpf are constructing a dresser for them. The framework was made from the wood scraps in the workroom, and the drawers are a combination of a coverless cigar box and an old spool for a handle. Eventually the dresser will be painted blue to match the other furnishings in the doll's corner, and the wardrobe will be laid away carefully until the dresses now being worn are ready for the wash.

MAUTHE SPEAKER AT FISH, GAME MEETING

Annual meeting of Outa- gamie-co Association to Be Held Feb. 4

Three persons well known for their work in fish and game conservation will be speakers at the annual meeting and banquet of the Outagamie Fish and Game association at Hotel Northern on Monday, Feb. 4. The meeting will open with a 6:30 dinner.

"Cooperative Ponds" will be discussed by C. F. Culler, president of the American Fishery society, and United States district supervisor of Wisconsin for the propagation of fish. Another subject similar to Mr. Culler's will be Work of Game Farms, and will be discussed by W. B. Grange, member of the Wisconsin conservation commission.

The third speaker will be William Mauthe, Fond du Lac, chairman of the Wisconsin conservation commission. His subject will be Conservation.

U. S. C. OF C. WILL HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The seventh annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce will be held at Washington, D. C., April 29 to May 3, according to word received here by Kenneth Corbett, secretary of Appleton chamber. "Growing Responsibilities of Business" will be the general topic. Appleton chamber always has been represented at these meetings, according to Mr. Corbett, and probably will be again this spring.

MAYTAG Washers Now in Antarctica

with Byrd
South
Pole
Expedition

THE BYRD South Pole Expedition has reached its permanent base, 2400 miles south of the nearest human dwelling.

"Maytags were selected," says Sidney Gleason, Chief Steward, "because of the advanced type, strength of aluminum body construction, compactness and precision of mechanical parts necessary to give maximum efficiency under the trying conditions to be encountered."

The Maytag is "First" everywhere.
